Ohio Schools Told Live within Budget

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Education Supt. E. E. Holt advised public schools today to live within legislative appropriations.

In an unprecedented letter to local superintendents and boards of education, Holt said: "The Controlling Board has instructed me . . . to certify amounts for calendar years 1964 and 1965 due each school district that, collectively, will be within the school foundation appropriation totals."

"In accordance with this instruction, we will prepare a certification which accurately reflects your dollar share of the school foundation appropriation for this calendar year and send it to you as soon as the calculations have been completed."

Holt explained that the calculations will be based on a $510.5 million school appropriation for the state's two-year bookkeeping period.

The letters followed administration efforts to prevent recurrent school foundation deficiencies made up by past legislatures. The last deficit was nearly $2.5 million dollars but in 1957 it exceeded $21 million.

The Controlling Board, set up by the legislature to filter appropriation spending, adopted a resolution at last week's meeting guaranteeing quarterly school subsidy payments when due "within appropriation limits."

Officials described the board action as a call for the Education Department to prevent overspending.

"We have been assured," Holt wrote school heads, "by both the State Controlling Board and the Department of Finance that the full school foundation as appropriated by the 105th General Assembly of Ohio will be available to support eligible districts during the present biennium.

"It is the objective of the administration, the Department of Finance and the Department of Education to continue in the future the prompt settlement of the school foundation appropriation."

Last month's quarterly payment of $66.2 million in subsidies was met by borrowing $506,000 from appropriations for the next three months, a practice that got the previous administration in financial trouble. Finance Director Richard Krabach, with backing from the present administration and legislative leaders, called for action to prevent any deficiency, which some estimates placed at $8 million for this year.

Holt's letter said that calculated foundation costs for this year exceeded appropriations and pointed out that the Controlling Board could not legally approve payments in excess of the sum fixed by the legislature.

Millett Tipped As Regent Aide

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A six-month search for the man to head up Ohio's master plan for higher education as authorized by the Board of Regents is over. Identity of the administrator will be announced in Gov. James A. Rhodes' office Wednesday morning—and all signs are that it will be the president of Miami University of Ohio, Dr. John D. Millett.

The word is that the post will pay about $36,000 a year. It will take the full time of the man who occupies it, so the university at Oxford is expected to be in search of a new president, soon.

Millett, born in Indianapolis 52 years ago March 14, has been a top-ranking consultant and executive in national educational circles, both government and private.

He was in Washington in connection with his post as consultant to the U.S. Office of Education—directing preparations to administer the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963—when he was contacted Monday night about the regents appointment.

He did not quash the rampant reports that he has accepted the executive directorship. Rather, he said, "I will be in Gov. Rhodes' office at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. I will have no statement to make until I arrive there."

When the regents organized last fall, Millett was quoted as saying he would not be interested in serving as their executive director. Miami's president since 1953, he was quoted as being opposed to anyone in any o-

Ohio's state universities accepting the job.

Dr. Harold W. Oyster, Marietta optometrist who is chairman of the Board of Regents, verified that the Statehouse news conference is on Wednesday and that the director would be named then.

Reds Maul Vietnamese

American Officer
Is Among Killed

TAN CHAU, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrillas severely mauled two crack Vietnamese airborne battalions today, inflicting the heaviest casualties on government forces in a single engagement in months. A U.S. adviser was among the dead.

In an hour-long battle which one U.S. officer described as the "damnedest firefight I have seen since World War II," 85 government troops were wounded and 15 killed, including an American captain advising an airborne battalion.

Vietnamese authorities claim more than 100 Viet Cong guerrillas were killed in the engagement, which began soon after dawn. But American advisers at the scene could not confirm the report.

The battle took place in Kien Phuong Province beside the Mekong River, barely 2,000 yards from the Cambodian border.

The airborne battalions were searching for a guerrilla battalion which was known to be operating in the border area. After breaking off the fight, the Communists were reported to have headed toward Cambodia.

J.S. helicopters could not fly in because of a rule prohibiting operation of U.S. aircraft closer than three miles to the border.

The killing of the U.S. captain increased American combat deaths in Viet Nam to 113. His identification was withheld.

Unusual 2-Inch Snow Blankets Arizona City

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A potent storm rumbled through the Southwest today, plunging a seven-state area with snow, plummeting temperatures and strong winds.

The U.S. Weather Bureau issued hazardous conditions for motorists and stockmen. Tucson, Ariz., received a 2-inch snowfall in two hours Monday night, where the snowfall annually averages 1.1 inches. It was the first measurable snowfall since 1958. Some parts of the city measured up to 3 inches.

CHS Juniors Hear Outline On DE Plan

Study on a possible Distributive Education program for Circleville High School continued today when school officials met with members of the CHS junior class for a discussion of the proposal.

Meeting with the junior students was Clovis Wetherford, central district supervisor for the Distributive Education program. Also taking part were Circleville Superintendent Fritz Jacobs and Principal Richard Snouffer.

The discussion was held with junior students interested in the program. The pupils were directed to evaluate such an undertaking here and discuss it with their parents.

Results of the student evaluations will be compiled in about a week, according to Jacobs. The information then will be passed on to the local Board of Education.

THE PROGRAM calls for participation by both students and local retailers, wholesalers and service firms. Jacobs has already submitted an outline of the proposal to the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce, which also has undertaken a study of the proposal.

Weatherford plans to visit this community Mar. 18 and 19 for talks with wholesale, retail and service firm officials concerning the program. The results of his study also will be presented to the school board.

Andean Volcano Destroys Town

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — An Andean volcano was reported today to have erupted and triggered avalanches that destroyed the little town of Conaripe and threatened a 60-mile area of southern Chile containing 20,000 persons.

Press reports from the stricken area said at least 25 persons had been killed after the fiery eruption of 9,325-foot Villarrica volcano early Monday, but police said only seven deaths had been confirmed.

"Nothing is left of Conaripe," a civilian pilot said after flying over the mountain valley about 500 miles south of Santiago Monday. "There is only mud and water where the town was."

LBJ, British Aide Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—British Labor party leader Harold Wilson ends his Washington visit today after having what he called "a very good, frank talk" with President Johnson.

He declined to spell out just what they discussed Monday, but told reporters he couldn't think of any important subjects they hadn't touched on.

"We had a very enjoyable talk," he said. "It was very frank. There were no difficulties of communication or lack of words."

Wilson, who would become prime minister if the Labor party wins the forthcoming British election, said his trip here had two purposes: to bring himself up to date on American thinking and to answer any questions put to him.

Asked for his evaluation of Johnson, the Labor party leader said: "I felt the Western Alliance and the United States are in good hands."

Malaysian Talks Stall

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Indonesia and Malaysia stood pat today on conflicting demands as their representatives gathered in Bangkok for another conference with the Philippines on the Malaysia crisis.

Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio told newsmen his government insists a political settlement must be discussed along with talk about the shaky cease-fire along the border between Indonesian and Malaysian Borneo.

Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak of Malaysia said the cease-fire must be made effective before the ministers take up political problems.

Ministers of the three nations, with Thai officials acting as mediators, are meeting for the second time in a month to try to agree on a basis for settlement of the crisis.

Soviet Wheat Purchases End

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet purchases of United States wheat have quietly ended because the Soviet Union has decided it has enough grain, the New York Times said today.

American wheat traders in Moscow have been told that the Soviet Union does not plan to buy more wheat at this time from the United States, "or any one else for that matter," the story added.

Two sales of U.S. wheat to Russia — totaling about $132 million worth—have been reported. The Soviet Union has bought wheat from other Western nations also since last summer because of crop failures.

Sub Judge Sits In Ruby Trial

Cyprus Slated To OK UN Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cyprus was expected to give its approval today to a new small-nation proposal authorizing U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to send an international peace force to the Mediterranean island.

The compromise formula, worked out by five of the six elected members of the U.N. Security Council, was presented to the 11-nation council Monday by Brazilian delegate Carlos Alfredo Bernardes.

The resolution also called for Thant to name a mediator to help solve the constitutional crisis that has brought the Greek and Turkish Cypriots nearly to civil war.

Acceptance by Cyprus was regarded as the key to the plan's success. It faced a possible Soviet veto unless it met the approval of Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot president of Cyprus.

Neither the Cyprus nor the Soviet delegation would comment on the resolution. Sources close to the Greek Cypriots said they believed Makarios would go along.

The resolution was drafted by Brazil, Norway, Ivory Coast, Morocco and Bolivia.

The main obstacle had not been the proposed international force, but finding a way to meet conflicting demands of Cyprus and Turkey on how to refer to a 1960 treaty guaranteeing the Cypriot constitution.

The treaty gave Britain, Turkey and Greece the right to intervene to preserve the constitution, which grants the Turkish Cypriot minority veto rights that Makarios wants to do away with. Cyprus wanted all reference to this treaty omitted and insisted on a Security Council guarantee for the territorial integrity of the island republic as protection against invasion by Turkey.

The formula for the international force is similar to that sought by Britain and the United States from the start. The secretary-general would work out with the parties concerned the composition of the force. He would appoint its commander and the commander would report to him. Thant would report to the Security Council, but the council would not control the force.

U.S., Turkish Navies Prep

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy officials considered postponing 6th Fleet maneuvers with Turkey in view of the touchy Cyprus situation. But they decided to go ahead to avoid heightening the crisis atmosphere.

This was disclosed by informed sources today as defense officials pictured the U.S.-Turkish exercises in the Aegean Sea area as routine.

Authorities stressed that "we talked to the Greeks and the Turks talked to the Greeks, and nobody is concerned."

This appeared to square with the feelings of the Greek government.

In Athens, Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Costopoulos said Monday night that Greece was not worried about the U.S.-Turkish naval exercises.

Costopoulos said that as part of regular North Atlantic Treaty Organization drills, U.S. and Greek naval units would meet together later this month.

Pentagon sources said that in addition there will be joint naval maneuvers involving the U.S. 6th Fleet, the Greeks and the Turks at a later time.

It was learned that Vice Adm. William E. Gantner Jr., commander of the powerful 6th Fleet, had checked with Washington his decision to go ahead with the U.S.-Turkish drills.

Gantner's decision was concurred with by Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze and Adm. David McDonald, the chief of naval operations, informants said.

The last thing the Navy wants is to have to mix into a family quarrel between two U.S. allies, Greece and Turkey. The 50-ship 6th Fleet roams all over the Mediterranean and adjacent waters — but it concentrates most of its operations in the eastern Mediterranean.

Navy officials said the U.S. Turkish exercises are small-scale affairs involving only three or four ships of each nation.

Fireman's Son Killed by Debris

CINCINNATI (AP) — An explosion wrecked an empty warehouse in suburban Elmwood Place Monday night, showering debris on a crowd of people watching a fire in another building.

The 12-year-old son of an Elmwood Park fireman was buried under debris and crushed beyond recognition, police said. They identified him as Ricky Sneed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sneed.

Two other spectators were injured by debris from the blast which firemen blamed on a gas explosion.

Defense Aide Loses Debate

Original Jurist
Ill, Goes to Bed

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A substitute judge, J. Frank Wilson, began presiding over the murder trial of Jack Ruby today after a long argument from the bench with Ruby's chief defense counsel, Melvin M. Belli.

Belli protested, on several legal points, against Wilson's sitting on the bench for Judge Joe B. Brown, who came to his chambers this morning but became ill and his doctor ordered him home to bed. Brown said, "I've got an awfully bad cold."

Belli objected on several grounds to Judge Wilson replacing Judge Brown. The defense attorney argued:

"That he has a continuing motion to transfer the trial away from Dallas; he said this is 'cumulative with each juror,' and that Judge Wilson could not possibly have knowledge of all that has gone into the record in the trial which is now in the third week.

At the same time, Belli argued, while Judge Brown is absent "he cannot act on material presented in his absence." Several times Judge Wilson cut Belli short with a curt: "That's enough. Take your seat."

"Could I ask—" Belli began. "Take your seat," the judge repeated. "When the court says to you to take your seat it means take your seat."

Belli sat down.

At another point, Judge Wilson told Belli, "There's no use belaboring the issue."

When Belli raised the question of additional peremptory challenges, by which attorneys can discharge prospective jurors without stating a reason, Wilson said he would consider that question when it arises. He told Belli:

"I wouldn't require any defendant of any race, creed or color to accept an unfair juror."

Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade rose and said, "Judge Brown refused him any more challenges."

Belli then said he was formally objecting "to your honor sitting in this case," and to

Once Around Roundtown

SPRING cleaning is in progress at the courthouse. Mrs. Margaret Hickey, custodian, was supervising a group of relief workers today in removing the winter's accumulation of filth left by the pigeons on ledges around the building.

SHERIFF AND MRS. Walton Spangler quietly left town yesterday evening, telling no one their destination.

They wanted to celebrate their wedding anniversary in comparative solitude. . . . It was their 17th according to an informal source at the jail office. Both the sheriff and his wife were back on the job early today.

MacArthur Undergoing Medical Examination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the old soldier hero, was undergoing tests today at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital for "abdominal complaints."

Other sources said the general would be treated for jaundice—a yellowing of the skin that can be associated with various ailments, including hepatitis.

The general, 84, did not appear to be in acute pain Monday when he arrived after a flight from New York, where he has lived since 1951.

Blood Donor Appeal Is Made

County Used More Than Was Replaced

An appeal has been made for special types of blood when the Red Cross Bloodmobile visits here Thursday.

A Red Cross spokesman said type O-positive is needed for a 5-year-old boy who is to undergo open-heart surgery, in addition to type A-negative for two other operations.

T. D. Harman, chairman of the Pickaway County Blood Program, pointed out that "it is especially important that the quota of 125 pints per visit" be obtained. During 1963, residents of Pickaway County received 1,060 pints of blood as hospital patients, but only 878 pints were donated during the year by the county residents.

He emphasized that those who donated at the last visit of the Bloodmobile on Jan. 10 will be eligible at this week's visit since nearly two months have gone by.

The Bloodmobile will be at the First Methodist Church from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. Thursday. All prospective donors are urged to make every effort to contribute blood during this visit.

29 Candidates Ordered To Make No Speeches

ATLANTA (AP)—The 29 candidates in the Catoosa County Democratic primary election March 10 have been ordered by the county Democratic committee to make no speeches.

The order left most of the residents in the northwest Georgia county speechless.

County Chairman Cortez Lamb said 17 of the candidates voted in a secret ballot to eliminate speeches. He said the county committee would be asked to reconsider the order.

Only Hick Towns Have Parking Meters?

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Parking meters? Who needs them? Not Loveland.

"It used to be that a hick town was one without parking meters," says City Manager William Shawhan. "Soon it will be a hick town is one that has them."

This city of 5,000 on the Hamilton-Clermont - Warren County line hooded its parking meters last May in response to pleas from downtown merchants faced with competition from a new shopping center.

The experiment was for only 90 days at first. After a second 90-day trial also proved successful, city work crews ripped the meters from the sidewalks.

The reaction? "I've had as many as five people in one day tell me they were happy the meters were out," said Carl Brown, who runs one downtown store. "But the thing is, we would be dead if we had them."

"It's like advertising. You don't know how much credit to give it, but you know it has helped you."

Ray Bunnell, who manages a hardware store, said he felt sales are up because "people do not have to worry about putting in a penny," and are likely to stay in the store longer.

Mrs. Helen DeFosset, an appliance store operator, said the meters had served one purpose — they kept the people who live above the stores from parking out front all day.

But she said the problem had not returned because police are enforcing the two-hour parking law passed when the meter were removed.

Shawhan said Loveland's 100 or so meters brought $4,500 a year—not enough to make much difference to city finances. Noting that Loveland was the first town to pull out its meters, he said several others have followed suit since.

The local meter removal tickled the imagination of other communities. In Ohio, meters were pulled out by Struthers, population 15,631; Bedford, 15,223; Willoughby, 15,058, and Maumee, 12,063.

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet purchases of United States wheat have quietly ended because the Soviet Union has decided it has enough grain, the New York Times said today.

American wheat traders in Moscow have been told that the Soviet Union does not plan to buy more wheat at this time from the United States, "or any one else for that matter," the story added.

Cyprus Slated To OK UN Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cyprus was expected to give its approval today to a new small-nation proposal authorizing U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant to send an international peace force to the Mediterranean island.

The compromise formula, worked out by five of the six elected members of the U.N. Security Council, was presented to the 11-nation council Monday by Brazilian delegate Carlos Alfredo Bernardes.

The resolution also called for Thant to name a mediator to help solve the constitutional crisis that has brought the Greek and Turkish Cypriots nearly to civil war.

Acceptance by Cyprus was regarded as the key to the plan's success. It faced a possible Soviet veto unless it met the approval of Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot president of Cyprus.

Neither the Cyprus nor the Soviet delegation would comment on the resolution. Sources close to the Greek Cypriots said they believed Makarios would go along.

The resolution was drafted by Brazil, Norway, Ivory Coast, Morocco and Bolivia.

The main obstacle had not been the proposed international force, but finding a way to meet conflicting demands of Cyprus and Turkey on how to refer to a 1960 treaty guaranteeing the Cypriot constitution.

The treaty gave Britain, Turkey and Greece the right to intervene to preserve the constitution, which grants the Turkish Cypriot minority veto rights that Makarios wants to do away with. Cyprus wanted all reference to this treaty omitted and insisted on a Security Council guarantee for the territorial integrity of the island republic as protection against invasion by Turkey.

The formula for the international force is similar to that sought by Britain and the United States from the start. The secretary-general would work out with the parties concerned the composition of the force. He would appoint its commander and the commander would report to him. Thant would report to the Security Council, but the council would not control the force.

U.S., Turkish
Navies Prep

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy officials considered postponing 6th Fleet maneuvers with Turkey in view of the touchy Cyprus situation. But they decided to go ahead to avoid heightening the crisis atmosphere.

This was disclosed by informed sources today as defense officials pictured the U.S.-Turkish exercises in the Aegean Sea area as routine.

Authorities stressed that "we talked to the Greeks and the Turks talked to the Greeks, and nobody is concerned."

This appeared to square with the feelings of the Greek government.

In Athens, Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Costopoulos said Monday night that Greece was not worried about the U.S.-Turkish naval exercises.

Costopoulos said that as part of regular North Atlantic Treaty Organization drills, U.S. and Greek naval units would work out together later this month.

Pentagon sources said that in addition there will be joint naval maneuvers involving the U.S. 6th Fleet, the Greeks and the Turks at a later time.

It was learned that Vice Adm. William E. Gantner Jr., commander of the powerful 6th Fleet, had checked with Washington his decision to go ahead with the U.S.-Turkish drills.

Gantner's decision was concurred with by Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze and Adm. David McDonald, the chief of naval operations, informants said.

The last thing the Navy wants is to have to mix into a family quarrel between two U.S. allies, Greece and Turkey. The 50-ship 6th Fleet roams all over the Mediterranean and adjacent waters — but it concentrates most of its operations in the eastern Mediterranean.

Navy officials said the U.S. Turkish exercises are small-scale affairs involving only three or four ships of each nation.

Fireman's Son

CINCINNATI (AP) — An explosion wrecked an empty warehouse in suburban Elmwood Place Monday night, showering debris on a crowd of people watching a fire in another building.

The 12-year-old son of an Elmwood Park fireman was buried under debris and crushed beyond recognition, police said. They identified him as Ricky Sneed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sneed.

Two other spectators were injured by debris from the blast which firemen blamed on a gas explosion.

Defense Aide Loses Debate

Original Jurist
Ill, Goes to Bed

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A substitute judge, J. Frank Wilson, began presiding over the murder trial of Jack Ruby today after a long argument from the bench with Ruby's chief defense counsel, Melvin M. Belli.

Belli protested, on several legal points, against Wilson's sitting on the bench for Judge Joe B. Brown, who came to his chambers this morning but became ill and his doctor ordered him home to bed. Brown said, "I've got an awfully bad cold."

Belli objected on several grounds to Judge Wilson replacing Judge Brown. The defense attorney argued:

"That he has a continuing motion to transfer the trial away from Dallas; he said this is 'cumulative with each juror,' and that Judge Wilson could not possibly have knowledge of all that has gone into the record in the trial which is now in the third week.

At the same time, Belli argued, while Judge Brown is absent "he cannot act on material presented in his absence." Several times Judge Wilson cut Belli short with a curt: "That's enough. Take your seat."

"Could I ask—" Belli began. "Take your seat," the judge repeated. "When the court says to you to take your seat it means take your seat."

Belli sat down.

At another point, Judge Wilson told Belli, "There's no use belaboring the issue."

When Belli raised the question of additional peremptory challenges, by which attorneys can discharge prospective jurors without stating a reason, Wilson said he would consider that question when it arises. He told Belli:

"I wouldn't require any defendant of any race, creed or color to accept an unfair juror."

Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade rose and said, "Judge Brown refused him any more challenges."

Belli then said he was formally objecting "to your honor sitting in this case," and to (Continued on Page Two)

Seat on Health Panel Demanded

GENEVA (AP) - France today demanded the admission of Communist China to the United Nations World Health Organization.

The French announcement on the opening day of the annual WHO assembly indicated that France will take a similar position in the U.N. General Assembly and in all organizations affiliated with the United Nations.

French delegate Eugene Aujaleu made the announcement as the assembly debated a Soviet proposal to recognize the Peking regime as the rightful representative of China in the 110-member health organization.

It was the first time any major international body has faced a challenge to the Chinese Nationalist delegation since France recognized Red China on Jan. 28.

Every WHO assembly since the Communists took over the Chinese mainland in 1949 has opened with a demand by the Soviet bloc and neutralist African-Asian countries that Red China replace Nationalist China in the organization.

The proposal invariably has been rejected by a majority which accepted the Western argument that WHO should take no such political decision independently of the U.N. General Assembly.

France has always supported this Western position. The French switch of sides failed, however, to upset the traditional Western majority. The Communist challenge to the Chinese Nationalist delegation was rejected by 51 votes to 21, with 2 abstentions. France voted to support the challenge, together with the Soviet Bloc and the neutralists.

Aujaleu's statement left a number of questions unanswered. It did not explain whether France wants the present Chinese Nationalist delegation replaced, or whether it wants Red China admitted in addition.

Pickaway County's Board of Commission members, meeting for their first quarterly session in 1964, yesterday signed a contract with the Village of Orient for handling prisoners in the county jail.

The first quarterly session will extend through Wednesday. The meeting for tomorrow will include a study of sheep claims that have been filed since the last quarter.

Regular business was conducted yesterday, including the signing of routine bills.

The truck was driven by Earl D. Ford, 19, of 512 S. Court St. He was driving east on Main St. at the time.

Young Downing was headed south on Pickaway St. Witnesses said it appeared both the truck and bike entered the intersection as the light was changing.

Patrolmen Richard Anderson and Dixie Waters said the pickup and the bike were slightly damaged.

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Autobuses full of Indians rolled into this state capital this morning bringing representatives of most of Washington's four dozen tribes for a summit meeting with Gov. Albert D. Rosellini about century-old treaties.

The Indians, most of them members of the western Washington fishing tribes, are protesting the State Game Department's regulations to forbid Indian net-fishing off reservations. Clauses in treaties signed in the mid-1850s with the United States, they say, give them the right to fish "at all usual and accustomed grounds."

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—A 39-year-old mother who said parking fines were "unconstitutional and degrading," has spent her first night in jail rather than pay $115 in penalties.

Mrs. Horvath is a student at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, studying for an advanced degree in guidance and counseling. Her husband, William, 42, teaches economics at the Milwaukee Vocational School.

WASHINGTON (AP)—An increasing number of youngsters are smoking regularly as early as fifth grade, a survey reported Monday.

Why? To show off, to appear more mature or as a type of status symbol because they are not up to the mark scholastically.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze says America's Polaris submarines could cause so much death and destruction "as to make the initiation of a nuclear war by an enemy irrational."

Nitze's assessment of the Polaris nuclear power came in a statement to Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee on Defense. He had asked Nitze for an unclassified statement so it could be released to the public.

The secretary of Navy said the 11 Polaris submarines already in service have all the essentials of "an effective deterrent force" and could kill as many as 35 million persons in a nuclear war.

Wilson's assuming discretion about granting any more peremptory challenges.

Ruby is on trial for slaying Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

The defense has exhausted its allotted 15 peremptory challenges. Judge Brown had granted three extras which also have been used and he said Monday that he would not allow Belli any more.

The legal instrument by which Judge Wilson replaced Judge Brown was signed by Dallas A. Blankenship, presiding judge of the First Administrative Judicial District of Texas. The administrative assignment said it was "for the period beginning March 3, 1964, for the disposition of such matters as may come before him and terminating when such matters have been concluded."

Wilson is a former congressman. He was elected a district judge in 1943 and left the bench when elected to the U.S. House in 1946. He retired from Congress in 1955, resumed private law practice and returned to bench in 1955.

Dist. Atty. Wade told news earlier that under Texas law a judge can be replaced by another without a mistrial. But Wade said there has been no precedent in Texas for a judge leaving a case and then returning to it.

Belli, questioning whether the judge can be replaced, said "I am concerned about Judge Brown's health. Judge Brown is our judge."

After some further discussion in the courtroom, the first jury candidate of the day was called for questioning.

The panel for Ruby's trial still needs two jurors.

The 11th juror, a woman, was accepted a short time later. She was Mrs. Aileen B. Shields, a divorcee who is employed by the telephone company in the engineering department.

A new page in the history of the Circleville Methodist Church was launched today as dismantling of the old parsonage building just north of the church got under way.

Removal of the old building will make way for a new educational unit that will be added to the present church. The C. A. Yeager Co. of Portsmouth is the general contractor in charge of construction.

According to pages of history, the "large and commodious parsonage was built" on Pickaway St. next to the Methodist Church. The lot had been purchased Mar. 27, 1886, from Peter and Emaline Bartholomew.

Records show that trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church making the lot purchase were William Bauder, Batteal N. Moore, Henry Piper, James Clark, George J. McMullen, James Richelderfer, William W. Miller and William Chaney.

THIS history on the old parsonage was gathered with the help of the Pickaway County Recorder's office and M. E. Noggle

France Backs Peking in U.N.

Seat on Health Panel Demanded

GENEVA (AP) — France today demanded the admission of Communist China to the United Nations World Health Organization.

The French announcement on the opening day of the annual WHO assembly indicated that France will take a similar position in the U.N. General Assembly and in all organizations affiliated with the United Nations.

French delegate Eugene Aujaleu made the announcement as the assembly debated a Soviet proposal to recognize the Peking regime as the rightful representative of China in the 110-member health organization. It was the first time any major international body has faced a challenge to the Chinese Nationalist delegation since France recognized Red China on Jan. 28.

Every WHO assembly since the Communists took over the Chinese mainland in 1949 has opened with a demand by the Soviet bloc and neutralist African-Asian countries that Red China replace Nationalist China in the organization.

The proposal invariably has been rejected by a majority which accepted the Western argument that WHO should take no such political decision independently of the U.N. General Assembly.

France has always supported this Western position. The French switch of sides failed, however, to upset the traditional Western majority. The Communist challenge to the Chinese Nationalist delegation was rejected by 51 votes to 21, with 2 abstentions. France voted to support the challenge, together with the Soviet Bloc and the neutralists.

Aujaleu's statement left a number of questions unanswered. It did not explain whether France wants the present Chinese Nationalist delegation replaced, or whether it wants Red China admitted in addition.

Taken to Berger Hospital for a check was Thomas E. Downing, 15, of 217 N. Pickaway St. Police said he suffered a hand and possible other injuries.

The truck was driven by Earl D. Ford, 19, of 512 S. Court St. He was driving east on Main St. at the time.

Young Downing was headed south on Pickaway St. Witnesses said it appeared both the truck and bike entered the intersection as the light was changing.

Patrolmen Richard Anderson and Dixie Watters said the pickup and the bike were slightly damaged.

LIBREVILLE, Gabon (AP) — Anti-government demonstrators poured into the streets of Libreville today for the third day running.

French and Gabonese troops were trying to disperse the crowds, estimated at several thousand.

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Automobiles full of Indians rolled into this state capital this morning bringing representatives of most of Washington's four dozen tribes for a summit meeting with Gov. Albert D. Rosellini about century-old treaties.

The Indians, most of them members of the western Washington fishing tribes, are protesting the State Game Department's regulations to forbid Indian net-fishing off reservations. Clauses in treaties signed in the mid-1850s with the United States, they say, give them the right to fish "at all usual and accustomed grounds."

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A 39-year-old mother who said parking fines were "unconstitutional and degrading," has spent her first night in jail rather than pay $115 in penalties.

Mrs. Horvath, the mother of three, was sentenced to 55 days by County Judge John E. Krueger. Police said she accumulated 11 parking tickets in a 3½-month period late last year.

Mrs. Horvath is a student at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, studying for an advanced degree in guidance and counseling. Her husband, William, 42, teaches economics at the Milwaukee Vocational School.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increasing number of youngsters are smoking regularly as early as fifth grade, a survey reported Monday.

Why? To show off, to appear more mature or as a type of status symbol because they are not up to the mark scholastically.

The survey, taken by Young Citizens, a weekly current events publication of the Civic Education Service, got a response from nearly 150 teachers from every section of the country.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze says America's Polaris submarines could cause so much death and destruction "as to make the initiation of a nuclear war by an enemy irrational."

Nitze's assessment of the Polaris nuclear power came in a statement to Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee on Defense. He had asked Nitze for an unclassified statement so it could be released to the public.

The secretary of Navy said the 11 Polaris submarines already in service have all the essentials of "an effective deterrent force" and could kill as many as 35 million persons in a nuclear war.

DENVER (AP) — Gov. John Love is calling the Colorado Legislature into special session sometime in April to reappoint the state's four congressional districts.

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A Vietnamese-American security

team cracked a Communist plot Sunday night a few hours before an 11-pound bomb was to be exploded inside the U.S. military advisory assistance compound in Saigon, reliable sources reported today.

A Viet Cong reportedly was caught with the bomb and confessed that he had planned to smuggle it into the American compound and set it off just when crowds of Americans and Vietnamese report for work.

Defense Aide

Wilson's assuming discretion about granting any more peremptory challenges.

Ruby is on trial for slaying Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy. The defense has exhausted its allotted 15 peremptory challenges. Judge Brown had granted three extras which also have been used and he said Monday that he would not allow Belli any more.

The legal instrument by which Judge Wilson replaced Judge Brown was signed by Dallas A. Blankenship, presiding judge of the First Administrative Judicial District of Texas. The administrative assignment said it was "for the period beginning March 3, 1964, for the disposition of such matters as may come before him and terminating when such matters have been concluded."

Wilson is a former congressman. He was elected a district judge in 1943 and left the bench when elected to the U.S. House in 1946. He retired from Congress in 1955, resumed private law practice and returned to bench in 1955.

Dist. Atty. Wade told newsmen earlier that under Texas law a judge can be replaced by another without a mistrial. But Wade said there has been no precedent in Texas for a judge leaving a case and then returning to it.

Belli, questioning whether the judge can be replaced, said "I am concerned about Judge Brown's health. Judge Brown is our judge."

After some further discussion in the courtroom, the first jury candidate of the day was called for questioning.

The panel for Ruby's trial still needs two jurors.

The 11th juror, a woman, was accepted a short time later. She was Mrs. Aileen B. Shields, a divorcee who is employed by the telephone company in the engineering department.

Life in Wilderness Fails To Unnerve Anne Baxter

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Anne Baxter's adventurous married life has led her back to the perils of civilization.

Having lived in two wildernesses, the actress now finds herself in deepest Bel-Air. She is surprised to learn that she has adjusted with no problems.

"It all comes back to me," she remarked. "I find I can dial a telephone with no difficulty—and none of this nonsense about digit dialing. I still use prefixes. I can use the phone to order delicacies from the grocery store. It's amazingly simple."

Ohio Legion Asks Backing For Parades

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Executive Committee of the Ohio American Legion wants greater participation by junior groups and non-member adults in Legion parades and contests.

The committee, meeting here Sunday, approved a program of contests including cash awards for junior bands competing in the annual Legion convention parade in Columbus, July 26, and sponsored by home-town posts.

Approved was a program permitting a 20 per cent non-Legion membership (over age 21) in the contest for senior drill teams and a new parade contest for baton-twirling units.

The committee voted a budget of $6,000 for the entire program. In other actions, the committee:

Approved a Legion family day at Cedar Point on Sunday, June 21.

Agreed to back a program to procure new uniforms for the 60-piece band at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans Home at Xenia. The present uniforms were furnished by the Legion 24 years ago.

The return to the Hollywoods is the latest switch in Anne's marriage to rancher Randolph Galt, and she indicated it won't be the last.

"We have rented a house here for a year," she said. "We're renting because we don't know how long we will stay. There is no pattern, and that's the way I like it."

After her 1960 marriage, the Oscar winner ("The Razor's Edge," 1946) went to live on Galt's 34,000-acre cattle ranch at Giro Station, 180 miles from Sydney, Australia. There she did her own housework and reared her daughter, Katrina, under frontier conditions.

Anne spent three years in Australia, returning for occasional acting jobs and to give birth to daughter Melissa. A year ago she came back here for the arrival of a third daughter, Maginel. This time she didn't return to Australia.

Galt had bought a new ranch near Grants, N.M., a 17,000-acre spread.

After several months of the ranch life in New Mexico the Galts concluded it was impractical for two small daughters and another of school age. Hence the move back to Hollywood. Galt retains the Australian and New Mexico properties, and Anne doesn't know where his enterprises will take them next.

Truck Thief, 11, Bangs 6 More Automobiles

CINCINNATI (AP) — An 11-year-old boy who stole a truck two months ago and rammed two cars was up to his old tricks again.

This time he did even better (or worse). Police said he stole a diesel tractor and banged into six cars Monday.

They said the youngster drove for about two miles before his ride ended. He told officers he had been on the way to see his brother but got tired of walking and stole the truck from a lot.

Cattle Price Prop Assured

Johnson Orders Buying of Beef

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration has directed the Agriculture Department to buy beef in moves to bolster sagging cattle prices and to placate those demanding legislation to cut down sharply on meat imports.

The beef will be donated to the government-sponsored school lunch program and to needy persons receiving government surplus food.

If successful in strengthening cattle prices, the government buying program could be expected to result in higher retail prices of beef.

The purchase program was announced Saturday by the Agriculture Department after conferences between the White House and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

The decision was made at a time when some senators—including some influential Democrats — were pressing a beef amendment to the administration's controversial wheat-cotton bill which has run into strong opposition in the Senate.

The amendment would require a much sharper reduction in imports of meat than provided in agreements recently negotiated with Australia, New Zealand and Ireland, major foreign suppliers to this country.

Sponsors of the amendment contend that these agreements do not go far enough in limiting imports which have been blamed by cattle men and lawmakers from cattle states for drastic declines in cattle prices.

The beef imports and the low livestock prices appear likely to be major farm issues in the coming election.

Auto Driver Involved In Crash Found Dead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A man found lying in a West Side backyard died of bleeding from massive internal injuries, Coroner Robert A. Evans says.

The body of Arthur Coburn Jr., 33, of Columbus was found Monday. Police said his car was involved in a collision with another Sunday night, and that he wandered away and couldn't be found after talking with the other driver.

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Common Pleas Judges Association will hold a seminar for the state's Common Pleas Court Judges May 13-15 in Akron, it was announced today.

Topics will include a trial judge's responsibility in divorce cases, evidence, criminal law and procedure, judge-jury relations and elimination of causes of delay.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Hollywood and the Stars" started out in September dedicated to the production of laughs and nostalgia by showing bits from old silent movies. It has steadily broadened its horizons.

Monday night it showed what really went on during the well-publicized days in Mexico when Ava, Dickie and Liz—in alphabetical order — were concerned with the making of a movie, "Night of the Iguana."

Those expecting a lurid account were doomed to disappointment. Some one on the scene compared the sober goings-on to a Boy Scout picnic. This proved to be wild exaggeration.

The only fireworks shown were real ones—Roman candles shot off at a rather perfunctory party after the film was finished.

We did see Miss Gardner water skiing and, of course, acting. Miss Taylor was glimpsed reading a newspaper and standing around at the party. Burton was shown having his makeup applied, acting and standing around with Miss Taylor, looking bored.

By that time so was I. "Hollywood and the Stars" is a lot more entertaining when it shows Rudolph Valentino, Rod La Roque, Billie Dove and Mack Sennett bathing beauties.

"Missing Links," the NBC panel show, which will be departing soon to make room for Merv Griffin's new "Jeopardy," will not be a candidate for television's Boot Hill. ABC has picked up the show and is expected to put it into its morning game show lineup.

Ed McMahon, "Missing Links" host, probably will not cross the channel with the program. He has conflicting commitments with NBC's "Tonight Show" and Johnny Carson.

Sebastian Cabot, late of "Checkmate" and "Stump the Stars," will be host-narrator of CBS' "Suspense" series, which will replace "Tell It to the Camera" on March 26.

Recommended tonight: "Our Man in Washington," NBC, 10-11 (EST)—David Brinkley on a guided tour of the nation's capital that does not include the Washington Monument.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — This 1964 campaign year will have the usual chatter but may wind up ho-hum, lacking the tension and drama of recent presidential contests.

In three of the past four elections the issues and problems which gave the voters passionate concern seem muted so far this year.

For instance: war, Communist aggressions, McCarthyism, worry about internal security, the question of taking a new direction into a new era, and more heat about and by the candidates than has been shown yet in 1964.

Since President Johnson has the inside track for the Democrats' nomination, there's no excitement about their convention next summer. This could change if he pulls some boners, but there's nothing like that in sight.

Although the Republican nomination is wide open, the two men working for it hardest apparently haven't built major fires: New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The two who may have the best chance for the prize don't even admit they're candidates, although they do a lot of talking: former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton.

If Nixon is the man, the little element of mystery which gives a campaign zest before it starts won't apply. He laid down his campaign manners and methods in 1960.

Scranton, for a man being mentioned, shows a strange indifference. Last month he said a candidate for president to be effective must be "real stirred about the issues." He says he is not stirred up enough now.

It wasn't like this in what former President Harry S. Truman might now consider the good old days of 1948 when to practically everyone's surprise, but not his, he beat New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

In that year the country's jitters about the Communists-in-government issue was only part of the national anxiety. Earlier Truman had blocked the Communist pressure on Greece and Turkey.

But in 1948 tension climbed like a thermometer in a boiler room: The Communists had grabbed Czechoslovakia just before the campaign began and during the campaign Truman was trying to smash the aggressive Soviet blockade of Berlin with an airlift.

Even that was only part of the voters' concern. They had to ask themselves: Was this to be the end of an era that began 16 years before with Roosevelt? Was it time for a change? The voters decided no.

Their mood was far different in 1952 when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower beat Adlai E. Stevenson, governor of Illinois. By then the country was torn apart over McCarthyism, communism in this country, and the war against communism in Korea.

Stevenson gave the campaign dignity and intellectual agility far above most campaigns in history. He held interest. But by then the voters really wanted a change and chose the less articulate Eisenhower.

When Stevenson ran against Eisenhower in 1956 he never had a chance. By then, under Eisenhower, the country had recaptured its sanity and stability. Both McCarthyism and the Korean war were over.

The duel between Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy gave the 1960 campaign spice, particularly the television debates. Interest was high, so high the voters were almost equally divided between them, as Kennedy's hairline win showed.

But nothing like any of those campaigns is in sight for 1964, at least not yet.

Ohio Oil Regulation Conference Scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John M. McElroy, assistant to Gov. James A. Rhodes, says state officials are expected to confer this week with the Ohio Oil and Gas Association on proposed new oil well drilling regulations.

Rhodes is expected to make a decision by March 10 on what regulations to adopt and whether to cancel unused drilling permits to force drillers to conform to the new regulations.

Russell's Point School Shut by Bomb Report

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — School was out today at nearby St. Mary of the Woods while authorities searched the building for a bomb.

An unidentified caller Monday said there was a bomb in the school at Russell's Point, forcing evacuation of 108 students near the end of the school day. Officials decided to keep the school closed so that an intensive search could be made.

Congressman, NFO Director To Speak at Teays Valley

William H. Harsha and Leo Buehler will share speaking assignments 8 p. m. Saturday at Teays Valley School following the Pickaway County National Farmers Organization's sausage Supper, slated to begin at 5:30 p. m.

Harsha is a member of the House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional District of Ohio. A native of Portsmouth, he is currently serving his second term in Washington.

He is an attorney and a farmer. Married, he is the father of four children.

Buehler is a national director of the NFO. He is a native of Shelby County in Ohio and currently owns and operates a 101-acre farm.

LEO BUEHLER

HE JOINED the NFO in 1961, and was elected president of his county, zone and area meat bargaining committees.

He has served as finance officer and commander of his American Legion Post and is a member of the volunteer fire department. In his youth he was active in the Future Farmers of America and was awarded the State Farmer Degree in 1944.

He served in the United States Navy in World War II and was recalled during the Korean crisis.

is. He was elected to the national board of directors in December.

Robert L. Drummond, Orient, president of the sixth congressional district of NFO, announced a board meeting with Congressman Harsha at the Teays Valley high school Saturday afternoon. The congressman will be meeting with NFO members of Pickaway, Fayette, Highland and Ross Counties to discuss the farm situation and the aims of the NFO.

Life in Wilderness Fails To Unnerve Anne Baxter

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Anne Baxter's adventurous married life has led her back to the perils of civilization.

Having lived in two wildernesses, the actress now finds herself in deepest Bel-Air. She is surprised to learn that she has adjusted with no problems.

"It all comes back to me," she remarked. "I find I can dial a telephone with no difficulty—and none of this nonsense about digit dialing. I still use prefixes. I can use the phone to order delicacies from the grocery store. It's amazingly simple."

Ohio Legion Asks Backing For Parades

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Executive Committee of the Ohio American Legion wants greater participation by junior groups and non-member adults in Legion parades and contests.

The committee, meeting here Sunday, approved a program of contests including cash awards for junior bands competing in the annual Legion convention parade in Columbus, July 26, and sponsored by home-town posts.

Approved was a program permitting a 20 per cent non-Legion membership (over age 21) in the contest for senior drill teams and a new parade contest for baton-twirling units.

The committee voted a budget of $6,000 for the entire program. In other actions, the committee:

Approved a Legion family day at Cedar Point on Sunday, June 21.

Agreed to back a program to procure new uniforms for the 60-piece band at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans Home at Xenia. The present uniforms were furnished by the Legion 24 years ago.

The return to the Hollywoods is the latest switch in Anne's marriage to rancher Randolph Galt, and she indicated it won't be the last.

"We have rented a house here for a year," she said. "We're renting because we don't know how long we will stay. There is no pattern, and that's the way I like it."

After her 1960 marriage, the Oscar winner ("The Razor's Edge," 1946) went to live on Galt's 34,000-acre cattle ranch at Giro Station, 180 miles from Sydney, Australia. There she did her own housework and reared her daughter, Katrina, under frontier conditions.

Anne spent three years in Australia, returning for occasional acting jobs and to give birth to daughter Melissa. A year ago she came back here for the arrival of a third daughter, Maginel. This time she didn't return to Australia.

Galt had bought a new ranch near Grants, N.M., a 17,000-acre spread.

After several months of the ranch life in New Mexico the Galts concluded it was impractical for two small daughters and another of school age. Hence the move back to Hollywood. Galt retains the Australian and New Mexico properties, and Anne doesn't know where his enterprises will take them next.

Dreams Are Best If Unrealized

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato: There are two kinds of goals in this world—those you do something about, those you don't. It is the goals you try to achieve that often turn life into a nightmare. It is the goals you only daydream about that sometimes give you your greatest satisfaction.

Try and Stop Me

HONOR TRACY, witty and brilliant Irish author of "The First Day of Friday," was not too pleased with the looks of the English edition of her succeeding effort. She sent the London publisher a copy of the ever-so-much handsomer American edition of the book with a note reading, "As the cock said to the hens when he showed them an ostrich egg, 'I am not disparaging; I am not criticizing. I merely bring to your attention what is being done elsewhere.'"

A near-sighted debutante turned up for a soiree very much under the weather. "I can't see," she mourned. "I couldn't put in my contact lenses because my poodle bit me in the eye this afternoon." "What did he do that for?" asked the hostess. "Heaven knows," admitted the debutante. "Probably he felt like having an eyeball before dinner!"

A recent candidate from the Miss America festival at Atlantic City announces that she's had her last date with a medical student. She objects to the way the last one wooed her. He parked his car at Revere Beach, folded her in his arms, and whispered into her shell-pink ear, "Whose little bundle of red and white corpuscles is 'ou'?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

Heart attacks during the deer hunting season were found to be three times more frequent than accidental deaths from gunshot wounds. These statistics induced physicians to investigate the reasons for this unusual finding. Dr. Arthur C. Kerkhof and Dr. Charles P. Kolars of the Cardiac Work Evaluation Unit of the Minnesota Heart Association designed a series of tests that measured the amount of energy used in deer hunting. They felt that deer hunting was a strenuous exercise that placed a heavy burden on the hearts of middle-aged and elderly hunters. The stresses were found to be particularly great in those who did not regularly exercise or did not keep physically fit to endure the rigors of hunting. These doctors stated, "It is known that activities involved in deer hunting often demand high levels of energy expenditure. These may triple or quadruple the ordinary levels of energy expenditure to which the individual is subjected during the rest of the year." In a research project to determine the physical demands of deer hunting, they subjected a group of 37 men, all over age 40, to arduous tests. All the candidates studied had no known evidence of any heart disease. The subjects were made to exercise at high and low temperatures. They walked through difficult gravel terrain and climbed grades to a height of about eight feet. During both of these tests, there were no important changes in the electrocardiograph. Then each man was made to drag a 100-pound sack of sand for a period of three minutes. Now the electrocardiograph showed definite abnormalities that indicated stress on the heart. It was concluded from these findings that deer hunting should not be casually undertaken by middle-aged men who are out of condition, and certainly this activity should not be undertaken by those who have even a mild heart or blood vessel disease. The extraordinary burden of such energy-consuming activity and its effects on their physical condition must be given consideration by hunters. "No one is certain if regular exercise will prevent cardiovascular (heart and blood vessel) disease, but it is certain that slothfulness or laziness doesn't help." One of America's great cardiologists, Dr. Irvine H. Page, of the Cleveland Clinic, made this important statement at a recent medical meeting. Dr. Page, a noted philosopher as well as cardiologist, has given patients and students all over the world the benefit of his wisdom in the prevention of heart disease. Dr. Page bluntly and wisely stated, "More women should try supporting themselves, instead of leaving it to corsets. More men should have a rear-view mirror on their executive desks. An occasional look into it would show them what is gaining on them. Physically, we have become lazy."

The Business World

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP)—The power of the pull toward higher interest rates should be tested in the next few weeks. On one end of the rope in this tug of war are the federal income tax cut's touted boost to the American economy and the trend in Europe toward higher interest rates. On the other end of the rope is reluctance of government planners to see higher rates cramp a business boom before it gets well started. The U.S. Treasury has urged the money market not to speculate on a raise here in the discount rate, similar to that just ordered by the Bank of England. But some Wall Street credit and security dealers already talk of the prospects that the Federal Reserve Board will sooner or later raise the present 3 1/2 per cent discount rate—the charge for borrowing by its member banks. The Federal Reserve never telegraphs its punches. It won't say when, if ever, it will raise the rate to which most other short-term interest charges are tied. So the dealers just guess. And the yields on some short-term debts already have risen a little in anticipation. The Federal Reserve has other weapons in controlling the amount of credit and influencing the size of interest charges. One is to increase or lower the amount of reserves the member banks must keep with it. This gives them either less or more funds they can lend, regulating the supply of credit in terms of current demand. Another is to enter the government securities market and buy or sell. This, too, either builds up or decreases the amount of bank deposits which can be used for extending credit. The tighter the supply of lendable funds the higher interest rates are likely to go. Some are betting that the Federal Reserve will do nothing for the time being. This theory is that the board will wait to see what effect the last week's win actions—the tax cut and the British interest hike—may have on American money markets.

The tax cut's effects could be to set off a business expansion and a consumer buying spree that would, in time, inflate prices and boom the demand for easy credit. Many think it will not work that way at all, but have only a gradual and healthy effect. In that case the increased demand for credit would lead naturally to slowing rising interest rates.

These are the present uncertainties that both Washington and Wall Street are striving to assess. The next few weeks should tell how the American economy and banking and security markets will react.

Ohio Weed Tax Still Declines

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's cigarette tax collections continued to drop last week. State Treasurer John D. Herbert said today collections for the week ended Feb. 29 fell $324,000 below the comparable week a year ago. The continued decline since the federal health report on cigarette smoking last Jan. 10 left collections only $17,000 ahead of total collections in the same period last year. Total collections from Ohio's five-cents-a-pack cigarette tax since the start of the year are $44,156,000. Collections for the same period last year were $44,139,000.

Straws in the Wind

By John Chamberlain

ATHENS, GEORGIA: — If anyone north of the Mason-Dixon line still thinks the southern way of life produces a monolithic opinion, he has only to listen to a convocation of southern editors and students of journalism to be disabused of the idea. Your columnistic servant has just spent a couple of days at a Georgia Press Institute gathering here at the University of Georgia as the pampered guest of Southeastern Newspapers, Inc., publishers of papers in Augusta and Savannah. A good deal of what went on came under the heading of technical enlightenment for those who were still absorbing an education in city room practice. There was one particularly entrancing workshop session called "Sex in the Newsroom." But to an outlander such as myself, to whom news techniques have long since become matters of routine second nature, the really lasting value that one carries away from a meeting of this sort comes from the good "after hours" conversations in the coffee rooms.

There was the liveliest sort of dialogue about enigmatic questions of journalistic ethics involved in the "news" rating of stories of racial violence, for example. Editor Louis Harris, who prides himself on the smoothness with which integration has been achieved in his city of Augusta, attributed the lack of violence in his community to a newspaper policy of putting stories of demonstrations and racial picketing on an inside page and keeping them short. By such conservative playing of the news, he said, the tendency to build up exacerbations and enmities was short-circuited. But other editors and publishers insisted that news of picketing and sit-ins is "page one stuff," and that newspapers must play it that way and take the risk that conspicuous reporting of racial unrest will fan further troubles.

Said Charles Morris, Savannah publisher, to editor Louis Harris, "You've just been lucky in Augusta." But Mr. Harris (who is not to be confused with national pollster Louis Harris, held to his own opinion with imperious good humor, Savannah, he insinuated, might have had a shorter run of troubles if it had given its first trouble the page three treatment. And Atlanta, so he insisted, had compounded its difficulties by overplaying the news of a first outbreak of violence.

I gathered from the conversations that a large part of the south is, to quote editor Anthony Harrigan of Charleston, S. C., "tired of butting its head against the desegregation problem." Alabama and Mississippi may still fight, but the impression left by the coffee-room conversations here at Athens is that the promised Senatorial filibuster against civil rights legislation will not become a real stemwinder, provided certain provisions are toned down just a bit. Whether the fact that Lyndon Johnson proclaims himself a true southerner (in 1960 he was stressing his western flavor) has irretrievably blunted the force of the Goldwater movement in the south was another point of difference between some southern editors. Goldwater's contention that it would be inviting possible disaster if Secretary of Defense McNamara were to be allowed to "phase out" our manned bombers gets a pretty solid endorsement in Georgia. For Goldwater's opinion that manned bombers may be needed for a long time to come happens to agree with the thinking of Georgia's own popular Representative Carl Vinson, veteran Chairman of the House Armed Services committee.

Though Goldwater is liked in Georgia for his air force stand, some editors and publishers consider that he might have hurt "two-party" possibilities in the South by shooting too often from the hip in response to leading questions. It seemed obvious to a visitor from the North, however, that a "two-party" frame of mind could be revived in the South if foreign affairs continue to go badly against Lyndon Johnson. One editor was impressed by Richard Nixon's recent speeches which have taken issue with Administration foreign policy. Does this hint that if Goldwater can't make it, Nixon might lead a good two-party fight in the South if the Republicans should run him again?

Conversations are not the same thing as public opinion polls. But they can be straws in the wind.

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

There are two kinds of goals in this world—those you do something about, those you don't.

It is the goals you try to achieve that often turn life into a nightmare. It is the goals you only daydream about that sometimes give you your greatest satisfaction.

Everyone has ambitions he prefers to pursue more in fantasy than in real life. They are a portion of childhood's wonderful world of make-believe that we carry over into adulthood and help keep us young.

Sometimes these desires are spoken. Sometimes, for fear of being ridiculed, we hide them in a secret corner of the heart. And whether our dreams come true is really unimportant.

I have a friend whose hobby for more than 30 years has been trumpet playing. During all that time he has entertained a dream—to give a solo concert in Carnegie Hall.

"I don't want to make any money out of my concert," he says. "I don't even want tickets to be sold—not even as a charity benefit. I want to rent the hall with my own money, and invite only the people I want to be there—fellows like Satchmo Armstrong, Miles Davis, Al Hirt and Harry James, people who know an honest trumpet when they hear one."

"I don't even want any other instrument lousing up the background. I just want to stand up there in that big spotlight and blow my brains out on that trumpet for three hours."

Intermittently, this friend goes back and takes fresh lessons to keep his lip sharp. But over three decades, he's as bad as he ever was.

There is no chance whatsoever he will give a concert in Carnegie Hall. If he did, he'd set jazz music back half a century. But he's happy with his dream.

I have another friend whose ambition is to beat to a pulp the lieutenant he served under in World War II, a wish common to many ex-enlisted men.

Actually, he'd do no such thing. If he did meet up with his old loopy, they'd backslapping each other in five minutes and talking about what a great war they had together. Meanwhile, he enjoys his harmless revenge dreams.

I have one of these self-transquilizing aspirations, too. It's to write the great American novel.

Had this goal since I was 12. Started to write it a thousand times. Never got beyond the first paragraph. After the opening sentence, I start daydreaming about how I'll sell 10 million copies, sell it to the movies for $5 million and—

Why wear your mind out trying to write a book that may turn out to be lousy, when I can just sit there and enjoy spending dream money? So the rest of the page stays blank.

Dreams are best while they remain but hopes.

NEW YORK (AP)—The power of the pull toward higher interest rates should be tested in the next few weeks.

On one end of the rope in this tug of war are the federal income tax cut's touted boost to the American economy and the trend in Europe toward higher interest rates. On the other end of the rope is reluctance of government planners to see higher rates cramp a business boom before it gets well started.

The U.S. Treasury has urged the money market not to speculate on a raise here in the discount rate, similar to that just ordered by the Bank of England. But some Wall Street credit and security dealers already talk of the prospects that the Federal Reserve Board will sooner or later raise the present 3½ per cent discount rate—the charge for borrowing by its member banks.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

Heart attacks during the deer hunting season were found to be three times more frequent than accidental deaths from gunshot wounds. These statistics induced physicians to investigate the reasons for this unusual finding.

Dr. Arthur C. Kerkhof and Dr. Charles P. Kolars of the Cardiac Work Evaluation Unit of the Minnesota Heart Association designed a series of tests that measured the amount of energy used in deer hunting. They felt that deer hunting was a strenuous exercise that placed a heavy burden on the hearts of middle-aged and elderly hunters.

The stresses were found to be particularly great in those who did not regularly exercise or did not keep physically fit to endure the rigors of hunting.

These doctors stated, "It is known that activities involved in deer hunting often demand high levels of energy expenditure. These may triple or quadruple the ordinary levels of energy expenditure to which the individual is subjected during the rest of the year."

In a research project to determine the physical demands of deer hunting, they subjected a group of 37 men, all over age 40, to arduous tests. All the candidates studied had no known evidence of any heart disease.

The subjects were made to exercise at high and low temperatures. They walked through difficult gravel terrain and climbed grades to a height of about eight feet. During both of these tests, there were no important changes in the electrocardiograph.

OSU Newspaper Is Topic Of 2 Awaited Reports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two reports, neither of which has been prepared, may go a long way toward calming or ruffling an Ohio State University campus controversy over the student newspaper, The Lantern.

The student daily, which is supervised by the journalism department, gave prominent display the morning of Feb. 12 to a story of the arrest of coed Marjorie Cocozziello, 19, of Paterson, N. J., for failure to pay a jaywalking fine.

Later on Feb. 12, a demonstration by university students and others protesting the incident did several hundred dollars damage in the university area.

The question at the moment seems to be: Did the campus newspaper's coverage of the arrest have anything to do with the disturbance?

President Novice G. Fawcett refers to the "very long and somewhat spectacular way" the story was presented, but says there will be no attempt to censor the Lantern in the future.

The university's student personnel office is gathering data on all aspects of the incident, Fawcett says, but no deadline has been set for its report. He said he reserves the right to discuss the student newspaper with Prof. George J. Kienzie, director of the journalism school at a later date.

Kienzie, who says final responsibility for everything in the Lantern is his, defends the coverage, saying:

"The story was done objectively and thoroughly, and exposed a police policy under which a girl was jailed and treated as if she were a hardened criminal. One of the historic roles of the newspaper is to call attention to infringements of human rights."

The journalism school has a professional advisory council, Kienzie said, and two members already have looked into the situation. One, Willard Kiplinger of Washington, has indicated he may report his findings shortly, Kienzie said.

Kiplinger was unavailable for comment and it is not clear to whom he might send his report.

Dow-Jones Average Is Debate Topic

NEW YORK (AP)—The long-drawn-out flirtation of the Dow-Jones industrial averages with the 800 mark that has fascinated stock market followers finally came to the moment of truth. After several times pushing the popular index that high earlier in the day only to see it fall back, the bulls finally scored a closing figure of 800.14 Friday.

The psychological victory is due to the round figure's capture of public fancy.

But many critics think this and other popular averages aren't the best indicators of the market as a whole. They mirror only blue chips, even if some of these may have become a bit pallid in recent years or months. The general market hasn't swung up as vigorously. Many stocks—perhaps some of yours—haven't moved at all or have fallen back.

Reasons for the long upturn in the popular indexes are closely tied to psychology as well as to the dollar and cents matters of earnings and dividends.

The federal tax cut has bolstered confidence in an upcoming surge in the business of many of the corporations whose stocks appear in the averages. Stock traders long may have discounted this factor, but the general public tended to respond only as the bill took final form. It may well carry this confidence into actual stock buying when the benefits of the tax cut are realized in pay checks.

Both the public and the big institutional buyers apparently have concentrated for several months on blue chips and dealt more gingerly with less known or newer issues. It has been a general period of caution in business and finance.

Even so, not one of the 30 stocks on the Dow Jones industrial index was at its record high Friday. But five were near their peaks set earlier this year. Three others set their highs in 1963, seven in 1961 and four in 1960. The other 10 on the list made theirs before 1960.

Stocks on the list setting their record highs in February 1964 are A.T. & T., International Harvester, Sears Roebuck, Jersey Standard Oil, and Texaco. The three at their peaks in 1963 are Chrysler, General Motors, and California Standard Oil. Those dating back before the 1960s are Alcoa, American Can, Anaconda, Bethlehem Steel, Goodyear, International Paper, Swift, Union Carbide, United Aircraft, Steel.

Accused Car Thief Flees Portsmouth Jail

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Authorities in a three-state area are hunting for William Ivan Mullins, a suspected car thief, who escaped from the Scioto County jail early Sunday. Mullins, of nearby Lyra and Akron, apparently used blades smuggled in by visitors to saw through bars on top of his cell and then escape by way of the courthouse adjoining the jail.

Ohio Dem Boss Sees Party Hopes Soar

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Chairman William L. Coleman professes to see the Democratic party in Ohio emerging from a political eclipse in this election year.

"We have a lot of things going for us this time," he asserts. "We haven't had this kind of interest and activity since 1958."

Coleman, who has taken his political lumps since that high watermark election year, has varied reasons for his optimism.

High on the list is the public stir generated by the nomination contest between incumbent U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young of Cleveland and former astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., native son returning after 22 years with the Marines.

The space hero's belated candidacy dashed plans of Coleman and others for Young's endorsement at the party's pre-primary convention last month. But the chairman observed philosophically that the turn of events probably prevented an open split that could have been damaging.

Glenn backers took over the convention and it broke up in confusion without making endorsements.

Since then much of the party's organizational support has been quietly boarding the Glenn bandwagon, even in counties committed to Young.

The "open primary" has enabled the hurriedly formed Glenn camp to draw on state headquarters for mailing lists and other material such as platforms and similar data.

Fund-raising prospects also are looking up in the opinion of state headquarters aides. They expect President Lyndon B. Johnson to be the speaker for a postponed $100-a-plate dinner that brought out more than 3,000 party faithful two years ago. The event, billed as the "biggest ever," will follow the primary election.

Despite the late President John F. Kennedy's national popularity, he lost Ohio in 1960. But Coleman expects Johnson as a candidate to turn the tables with the aid of party harmony.

Quick Draw Proves Fatal

CLEVELAND (AP) — "We were practicing quick draws. We were going 'bang, bang'—but then my gun went off." Theodore Dyer told police remorsefully in explaining how he shot and killed his friend.

Dyer, 14, ran out of the house after shooting Frank Borsos Jr., 13, Saturday night, police said. But a few hours later he returned to the house where he lives with his grandparents.

The boy was held in Juvenile Detention Home pending a determination whether charges will be filed.

Borsos was shot in the face with a .38 caliber gun at close range, police said. Both guns belonged to Dyer's grandfather, Clayton Tankersly, who operates a grocery store near his home. He said the one Borsos used was not in working order.

Coleman supports his contention by pointing to cooperation between state headquarters and the party organization in populous Cuyahoga County for the first time in recent years. About one-fourth of the party's voting strength is located there.

Albert S. Porter, Cuyahoga County executive committee chairman, is the "favorite son" choice of Ohio's national convention delegation this year as a stand-in for Johnson.

Four years ago, Porter headed a splinter slate of Kennedy deflegates as the result of hostilities between then Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and Cuyahoga County Chairman Ray T. Miller, since retired.

Porter also is a force in the statewide organization of Democratic county chairmen, formed with Coleman's help.

General cooperating of county chairmen has been a hit and miss proposition in the past. During the 1950s a northern Democratic chairmen's association was organized apart from state headquarters.

With enthusiasm in rank and file forces on the rise, Coleman plans renewed efforts to stimulate public interest in the party. He is organizing a voter registration drive expected to carry over into the November election.

Peyton Place Benefits Go To Children

LACONIA, N.H. (AP) — The estate of "Peyton Place" author Grace Metalious — estimated at up to $1 million—apparently will go to her three children.

The sole beneficiary of her deathbed will, John Rees, notified the late author's lawyer, Bernard I. Snierston of Laconia, Sunday that he is giving up his claim.

Snierston said Rees' action might result in an agreement to reinstate the terms of an earlier will.

The Metalious children, Mrs. Marsha Dupuis, 20; Christopher, 17; and Cynthia, 13, were named the beneficiaries under the earlier will, signed in 1958.

Rees, a former British journalist, told a news conference in Boston last week that he had met the author last fall.

He and Mrs. Metalious had been collaborating on a book intended for publication next year, he said.

Mrs. Metalious, 39, had signed a new will last Monday night in a Boston hospital, naming Rees sole beneficiary and excluding the three children. She died of a liver ailment the next day.

Recalling 1958, when Democrats won control of the legislature and all but one elective Statehouse offices, Doleman says a big primary vote portends Democratic success the following November.

Democrats outvoted Republicans by more than 111,000 in the 1958 primary. The total primary vote exceeded 1.2 million. But 1960 and 1962 election figures hardly support the theory.

Four years ago Democrats outvoted Republicans by more than 78,000 when the primary total exceeded 1.3 million votes. But in November Kennedy lost the state and his party lost the legislature and all but one Supreme Court judgeship on a limited state ticket.

In 1962, Democrats outvoted Republicans better than 75,000 in the primary, which tallied more than 1.3 million votes. But Democrats suffered their worst defeat in recent years the following November. Republicans won the governorship and all other four-year elective Statehouse offices along with three Supreme Court seats.

Coleman vows, however, that things will look more like 1958 after this year's elections.

Fame as Football Coach Helps Wilkinson's Effort

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—"You don't have to tell me who you are, Bud," said a woman in a supermarket, one hand clutched to the handle of a grocery cart.

And a man around retirement age asked, "Can a Democrat vote for you?"

These and other residents of the Oklahoma seemed less impressed with issues than with fame of the handsome visitor who told each person he met, "I'll appreciate your vote."

Charles (Bud) Wilkinson's record during 17 years as the nation's winningest football coach made him well known in the area. But until he quit as football coach at the University of Oklahoma and launched his political campaign for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate he had never visited the Panhandle.

Wilkinson chose to launch his campaign in the Panhandle and northwest because the area has one of the largest concentrations of registered Republican voters—whose support he needs to win the nomination.

When the silver-haired, 47-year-old Wilkinson reaches to put on a pair of thick, black-rimmed glasses, there's a startling resemblance between him and the man he wants to see elected president of the United States this year, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

His backers concede that Wilkinson's fame as a football coach can't do anything but help.

On his second day on the campaign trail, he seemed content to make his initial venture into politics simply a "howdy" affair.

He avoided political controversy in his speeches and when he did volunteer to answer questions, it was rare when issues were injected into the meetings.

His campaign day started before dawn and lasted until long after dark. He drank gallons of coffee.

"I'm a conservative," he repeated at each stop. His great concern, he added, "is: 'Does man belong to the state or is the state the servant of the people?'"

Whatever the outcome, Wilkinson says he won't go back to coaching if he fails to win a two-year term in the Senate.

The seat he seeks is held by former Gov. J. Howard Edmondson who was appointed to the Senate after the death of Democratic Sen. Robert S. Kerr whose term was to expire in 1966.

Jet Plane Slices into Home, Burns

SUPERIOR, Wis. (AP)—Lawrence Nordlund watched in horror Sunday as an Air Force jet fighter sliced through his home where his wife was working in the kitchen.

The house and the plane, which crashed in a valley beyond, erupted in flame. Nordlund found his wife, Julieann, 45, in the basement and carried her out before the house was consumed.

Capt. Kenneth C. Hite, 33, pilot of the F106B fighter interceptor from nearby Duluth (Minn.) Air Force Base, was killed. His passenger, Col Earl L. Bastian, 45, the deputy base commander was burned slightly but parachuted safely.

Mrs. Nordlund was in serious condition in a Superior hospital. She suffered fractures and first and second-degree burns. Nordlund was in his yard and was not hurt.

Hite and Bastian were on a flight to Tyndall Air Force Base in Florida. Cause of the crash was not known.

Hite is a native of Shelbyville, Ky., Bastian of Scranton, Pa.

OSU Newspaper Is Topic Of 2 Awaited Reports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two reports, neither of which has been prepared, may go a long way toward calming or ruffling an Ohio State University campus controversy over the student newspaper, The Lantern.

The student daily, which is supervised by the journalism department, gave prominent display the morning of Feb. 12 to a story of the arrest of coed Marjorie Cocozello, 19, of Paterson, N. J., for failure to pay a jaywalking fine.

Later on Feb. 12, a demonstration by university students and others protesting the incident did several hundred dollars damage in the university area.

The question at the moment seems to be: Did the campus newspaper's coverage of the arrest have anything to do with the disturbance?

President Novice G. Fawcett refers to the "very long and somewhat spectacular way" the story was presented, but says there will be no attempt to censor the Lantern in the future.

The university's student personnel office is gathering data on all aspects of the incident, Fawcett says, but no deadline has been set for its report. He said he reserves the right to discuss the student newspaper with Prof. George J. Kienzie, director of the journalism school at a later date.

Kienzie, who says final responsibility for everything in the Lantern is his, defends the coverage, saying:

"The story was done objectively and thoroughly, and exposed a police policy under which a girl was jailed and treated as if she were a hardened criminal. One of the historic roles of the newspaper is to call attention to infringements of human rights."

The journalism school has a professional advisory council, Kienzie said, and two members already have looked into the situation. One, Willard Kiplinger of Washington, has indicated he may report his findings shortly, Kienzie said.

Kiplinger was unavailable for comment and it is not clear to whom he might send his report.

Dow-Jones Average Is Debate Topic

NEW YORK (AP) — The long-drawn-out flirtation of the Dow-Jones industrial averages with the 800 mark that has fascinated stock market followers finally came to the moment of truth. After several times pushing the popular index that high earlier in the day only to see it fall back, the bulls finally scored a closing figure of 800.14 Friday.

The psychological victory is due to the round figure's capture of public fancy.

But many critics think this and other popular averages aren't the best indicators of the market as a whole. They mirror only blue chips, even if some of these may have become a bit pallid in recent years or months. The general market hasn't swung up as vigorously. Many stocks — perhaps some of yours — haven't moved at all or have fallen back.

Reasons for the long upturn in the popular indexes are closely tied to psychology as well as to the dollar and cents matters of earnings and dividends.

The federal tax cut has bolstered confidence in an upcoming surge in the business of many of the corporations whose stocks appear in the averages. Stock traders long may have discounted this factor, but the general public tended to respond only as the bill took final form. It may well carry this confidence into actual stock buying when the benefits of the tax cut are realized in pay checks.

Both the public and the big institutional buyers apparently have concentrated for several months on blue chips and dealt more gingerly with less known or newer issues. It has been a general period of caution in business and finance.

Even so, not one of the 30 stocks on the Dow Jones industrial index was at its record high Friday. But five were near their peaks set earlier this year. Three others set their highs in 1963, seven in 1961 and four in 1960. The other 10 on the list made theirs before 1960.

Stocks on the list setting their record highs in February 1964 are A.T.&T., International Harvester, Sears Roebuck, Jersey Standard Oil, and Texaco. The three at their peaks in 1963 are Chrysler, General Motors, and California Standard Oil. Those dating back before the 1960s are Alcoa, American Can, Anaconda, Bethlehem Steel, Goodyear, International Paper, Swift, Union Carbide, United Aircraft, Steel.

Accused Car Thief Flees Portsmouth Jail

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Authorities in a three-state area are hunting for William Ivan Mullins, a suspected car thief, who escaped from the Scioto County jail early Sunday.

Mullins, of nearby Lyra and Akron, apparently used blades smuggled in by visitors to saw through bars on top of his cell and then escape by way of the courthouse adjoining the jail.

Ohio Dem Boss Sees Party Hopes Soar

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Chairman William L. Coleman professes to see the Democratic party in Ohio emerging from a political eclipse in this election year.

"We have a lot of things going for us this time," he asserts. "We haven't had this kind of interest and activity since 1958."

Coleman, who has taken his political lumps since that high watermark election year, has varied reasons for his optimism.

High on the list is the public stir generated by the nomination contest between incumbent U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young of Cleveland and former astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., native son returning after 22 years with the Marines.

The space hero's belated candidacy dashed plans of Coleman and others for Young's endorsement at the party's pre-primary convention last month. But the chairman observed philosophically that the turn of events probably prevented an open split that could have been damaging.

Glenn backers took over the convention and it broke up in confusion without making endorsements.

Since then much of the party's organizational support has been quietly boarding the Glenn bandwagon, even in counties committed to Young.

The "open primary" has enabled the hurriedly formed Glenn camp to draw on state headquarters for mailing lists and other material such as platforms and similar data.

Fund-raising prospects also are looking up in the opinion of state headquarters aides. They expect President Lyndon B. Johnson to be the speaker for a postponed $100-a-plate dinner that brought out more than 3,000 party faithful two years ago. The event, billed as the "biggest ever," will follow the primary election.

Despite the late President John F. Kennedy's national popularity, he lost Ohio in 1960. But Coleman expects Johnson as a candidate to turn the tables with the aid of party harmony.

Coleman supports his contention by pointing to cooperation between state headquarters and the party organization in populous Cuyahoga County for the first time in recent years. About one-fourth of the party's voting strength is located there.

Albert S. Porter, Cuyahoga County executive committee chairman, is the "favorite son" choice of Ohio's national convention delegation this year as a stand-in for Johnson.

Four years ago, Porter headed a splinter slate of Kennedy delegates as the result of hostilities between then Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and Cuyahoga County Chairman Ray T. Miller, since retired.

Porter also is a force in the statewide organization of Democratic county chairmen, formed with Coleman's help.

General cooperating of county chairmen has been a hit and miss proposition in the past. During the 1950s a northern Democratic chairmen's association was organized apart from state headquarters.

With enthusiasm in rank and file forces on the rise, Coleman plans renewed efforts to stimulate public interest in the party.

He is organizing a voter registration drive expected to carry over into the November election.

Peyton Place Benefits Go To Children

LACONIA, N.H. (AP) — The estate of "Peyton Place" author Grace Metalious — estimated at up to $1 million — apparently will go to her three children.

The sole beneficiary of her deathbed will, John Rees, notified the late author's lawyer, Bernard I. Snierston of Laconia, Sunday that he is giving up his claim.

Snierston said Rees' action might result in an agreement to reinstate the terms of an earlier will.

The Metalious children, Mrs. Marsha Dupuis, 20; Christopher, 17; and Cynthia, 13, were named the beneficiaries under the earlier will, signed in 1958.

Rees, a former British journalist, told a news conference in Boston last week that he had met the author last fall.

He and Mrs. Metalious had been collaborating on a book intended for publication next year, he said.

Mrs. Metalious, 39, had signed a new will last Monday night in a Boston hospital, naming Rees sole beneficiary and excluding the three children. She died of a liver ailment the next day.

tion campaign. March 25 is the deadline for primary election registrations.

Recalling 1958, when Democrats won control of the legislature and all but one elective Statehouse offices, Coleman says a big primary vote portends Democratic success the following November.

Democrats outvoted Republicans by more than 111,000 in the 1958 primary. The total primary vote exceeded 1.2 million.

But 1960 and 1962 election figures hardly support the theory.

Four years ago Democrats outvoted Republicans by more than 78,000 when the primary total exceeded 1.3 million votes. But in November Kennedy lost the state and his party lost the legislature and all but one Supreme Court judgeship on a limited state ticket.

In 1962, Democrats outvoted Republicans better than 75,000 in the primary, which tallied more than 1.3 million votes. But Democrats suffered their worst defeat in recent years the following November. Republicans won the governorship and all other four-year elective Statehouse offices along with three Supreme Court seats.

Coleman vows, however, that things will look more like 1958 after this year's elections.

Dear Abby:

by Abigail Van Buren

She Means Something!

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of ours rides to and from work with my husband every day. They don't work at the same place, but he drops her off at her place of employment in the morning, and at night she walks to where he works to catch a ride home with him. This woman is divorced, is in her early 40's, but acts like a school girl around my husband. She is very forward, quite loud, and is not my husband's type. He says she means nothing to him, but there was a time when he was on more than just speaking terms with another woman who also "meant nothing" to him, and I don't care to go through that again! We are happy now, and I want to keep it that way. I would have more peace of mind if my husband quit giving this woman rides. How does one end that sort of thing?

SEE THE SIGNS

DEAR SEE: You know your husband better than I do, and if you "see the signs," don't ignore them. Tell your husband that since this woman means nothing to him he should tell her that he is married to a jealous, possessive old witch (that's you!) and in order to preserve the peace at home he can't provide her with transportation any more. Period. She probably won't ever speak to you again, but as long as she quits speaking to your husband, who cares?

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me why it is almost impossible to get a woman to pay off a bet to a man? Women make bets right along with men, and they always collect when they win, but they rarely pay off when they lose. Why is that?

DEAR AL: There are no statistics on the subject, but it is my observation that when a woman bets with a man, and loses, she will offer to pay, but the man, not wishing to accept money from a woman, usually says, "Oh, forget it."

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago we took our beautiful little 10-year-old daughter to a doctor and he said she had leukemia. We didn't want to believe him so we took her to another doctor, and he said the same thing. Abby, our world has fallen apart. Our daughter may live a year, maybe less, but the doctors say no longer. I don't want to tell my parents. I know they will have to know some time, but I want to spare them all I can. It's bad enough that our hearts are broken. My husband says I am wrong, that I should tell my mother right away. What should I do, Abby?

BROKEN-HEARTED
DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Your husband is right, dear. Tell your mother. You need the support now of those who love you. Heartaches shared are somehow more bearable.

Six Unanimous Choices

All-Pickaway County Team For 1964 Has 11 Players

The 1964 edition of the All-Pickaway County League basketball team selected by the county cage coaches includes 11 players this year.

Teays Valley High School players, upon request of their coach Russ Gregg, were not included in the balloting. The Vikings did not compete in the county league.

The All-Star team includes six players who were unanimous choices of the five county coaches who voted.

The six are Rick Fenstermaker, 5-9, and Larry Beard, 6-4, of Williamsport; Gary Hardman, 5-9, and Jeff Lutz, 6, of Logan Elm; Ed Martindale, 5-7, of Jackson and Tom Seeley, 5-10, of Monroe.

ALL ARE seniors with the exception of Lutz who is a junior at Logan Elm.

Rounding out the 11 cagers are Bruce List, 5-9, Jackson; Dave Rowland 5-7, and Danny Bowen, 5-10, of Darby; Bob Sparks, 6, Monroe; Bruce Willis, 5-8, Williamsport.

Next year Darby, Monroe, Jackson and Williamsport will be consolidated in the Westfall High School and will be competing in the Scioto Valley Conference. All-Star teams of the future will be selected by coaches of respective leagues.

Tom Seeley and Larry Beard share top scoring honors on this 11-man unit. Both are averaging 19.4 points per game according to unofficial records kept by The Herald.

Seeley plays guard for the Indians while Beard is Williamsport's center.

Of the remaining top six players, Rick Fenstermaker, a guard, averaged 17.9 points per game, Jeff Lutz hit the nets at a 14.1 clip, Ed Martindale averaged 12.3 and Gary Hardman averaged 10.6.

MARTINDALE and Hardman are the playmakers for their respective teams.

Darby's high scoring pair of Rowland and Bowen are averaging 16.6 and 19.2 points respectively. Bob Sparks finished with a 15.4 average. Bruce List scored 14.9 per game and Bruce Willis had an average of nine per game.

Other players who were named by the coaches but who did not receive enough votes to make the team were Dwight Whaley, Jackson; Tom Hamman and Neil Coleman of Williamsport; Arnie Gabriel and Darryl Reichelderfer of Logan Elm.

The coaches who participated in the balloting were Keith Merrin, Logan Elm; Dick Everman, Monroe; Paul Hoskins, Jackson; Glenn Chester, Williamsport, and Ned Reichelderfer, Darby.

Fenstermaker, Seeley, Willis and Martindale are repeaters from last year's All-County selections.

Bob Bowsher Cage Award Due Tomorrow

The Pickaway County High School basketball player tabbed by a majority vote of coaches to be the most valuable to his team will be announced tomorrow.

The selected youth will be presented with the Bob Bowsher Trophy, a rotating award presented each year by The Herald.

In selecting the top player in the county, coaches consider overall ability, contribution to team effort and general conduct on the basketball court.

Bob Bowsher was an outstanding Circleville High School athlete killed in action in Europe during World War II. While in high school he participated in football, basketball, track and boxing.

THE DETERMINATION and bravery which made him an outstanding athlete was well exhibited in his war record.

Past winners of the award are Jim Pickelseimer, Williamsport, 1948; Bob Pontius, Walnut, 1949; Bill Rowley, Darby, 1950; Lester Saunders, Monroe, 1951; Harley Evans, Atlanta, 1952; Bill Evans, Pickaway, 1953; Kenny Kirk, New Holland, 1954; Harold Gearhardt, Atlanta, 1955; Gene Stonerock, Williamsport, 1956; Dave Smith, Pickaway, 1957; Dick Hoover, Ashville, 1958; Gary Valentine, Salter Creek, 1959; Bob Hoover, Ashville, 1960; Bob

Rudolph Pockets New Orleans Cash

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"This has been some day," said Mason Rudolph, pocketing the $7,500 first place check in the Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tourney.

"We almost didn't start, almost didn't finish and almost everything happened in between," said the bespectacled pro from Tennessee's dark-ford tobacco country, who came close to blowing a four-stroke lead in the wrapup of the $50,000 tourney Monday.

The 29-year-old Clarksville belter had to scramble for a final three-over-par 75. It gave him a 72-hole total of 283, one stroke in front of Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus, Puerto Rican Jan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez and unknown Glenn Stuart, a Michigan club pro.

Koufax, Dodger Manager Swap Barbs on Contract

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The contract battle between star pitcher Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers is over but the scars may linger for some time — perhaps long enough to damage the Dodgers' chances for a second successive pennant.

There is a distinct coolness between Koufax and Dodger General Manager Buzzy Bavasi, whom the brilliant southpaw accused Monday of deliberately casting him in the villain's role, forcing Sandy to accept a $70,000 contract for 1964.

"I've been hurt by people who I thought were my friends," said Koufax. "I was maneuvered into a corner where I was forced to agree to their terms or else be regarded as a greedy, no-good bum. When I met with Bavasi the last time I knew I had to sign no matter what they offered."

"They (the Dodgers) planted a story in a newspaper that I would quit if I did not get $90,000 plus a bonus based on attendance and a cut from pay television. The fact of the matter is I asked for just a few thousand dollars over what I finally agreed to. The Dodgers know this but all the people who had read the headlines do not. No matter what happens now, I'm marked as the greediest, most selfish guy in the world."

Bavasi, still in Los Angeles, reportedly is "fit to be tied" by Koufax' claim and a source close to the Dodger front office said the fuming general manager planned to fly to Vero Beach Wednesday to have it out with his star pitcher.

Koufax, who received $32,000 last year for winning 25 games and adding two more in the Dodgers' four-game World Series sweep over the New York Yankees, has not yet actually signed his 1964 contract. His agreement so far is an oral one. Sandy appeared worn and haggard as he discussed his front office troubles with newspapermen.

"A couple of years ago they chastised me for what they said was negotiating through the newspapers," said Koufax. "But it's all right for them to do it. I guess whoever gets to the papers first wins the battle."

"I agreed to terms but I told Bavasi I was unhappy. Not so much at the terms of the contract but because of the way they had pushed me into a corner."

"I'm no longer angry, but hurt. I haven't been able to sleep ever since this happened. Whenever I talk about it, my voice starts shaking and I become upset. I spoke for an hour and a half with Mr. O'Malley (club president Walter O'Malley) and I probably said some things I shouldn't have, but I wanted him to know how strongly I felt about it. I want everybody to know the truth."

Jesse Arnette, former Penn State basketball and football star, is associate director of the Peace Corps in Turkey.

USTA Opens Probe at Scioto Oval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The United States Trotting Association and officials of the Scioto Downs harness racing track south of Columbus are investigating possible malfeasance during the track's 1963 meeting. Scioto Downs itself was not involved, according to Don Millar, executive vice president of the USTA, headquartered here.

Millar emphasized that Scioto officials are working with the association in the probe. Millar issued this statement, refusing to amplify:

"An investigation of some of the participants in harness racing is under way here. I began with the Ohio district board of the USTA and the management of Scioto Downs about a month ago."

"The investigation resulted from information received by the USTA and the track after the 1963 racing season had closed. The track is not accused in any way."

"At present it is still in the investigation stage, and until the investigation is completed and hearings held, no further statement can be made."

OC Title Game To Repeat Past

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The setting will be familiar when the Wittenberg Tigers and the Akron Zips meet here tonight in the title game of the Ohio Conference Basketball tournament.

The two teams have been the finalists each year since the tournament was started in 1960, with Wittenberg winning all four years. Tonight's winner will advance to the NCAA small college regional tournament to be held here Friday and Saturday.

Wittenberg won the Southern Division championship of the Ohio Conference Tournament by defeating Otterbein, 69-61, at Columbus Monday night.

Randy Berentz scored 22 points to lead the Zips to a 76-53 victory over Wooster and the Northern Division crown.

Wittenberg held a 32-25 lead at halftime following nine ties and four lead changes. Gabe Kovacs made 25 points to lead the Tigers to their 18th victory in 22 games. However, scoring honors for the game went to freshman Don Carlos of Otterbein, who made 33 points. The Otters' defeat left them with a 16-5 record for the season.

Akron built up a 35-21 half-time lead and then coasted to its 19th victory in 25 games. The Zips went ahead to stay after the Scots held a brief two-point lead and the score was tied four times in the first six minutes of play. Buddy Harris made 14 points to lead the scoring for the Scots, who ended the season with a 17-9 mark.

Tonight's winner will meet Ithaca (N.Y.) College (16-2) in the semifinals of the NCAA regional tournament Friday night. Youngstown (23-2) is paired with Le Moyne College of Syracuse, N.Y., (16-5) in the other semifinal.

The regional winner will advance to the national finals at Evansville, Ind., March 11-13. Wittenberg was second in the nationals last year, losing to South Dakota, 44-42, in the championship game.

Bob Bowsher Cage Award Due Tomorrow

The Pickaway County High School basketball player tabbed by a majority vote of coaches to be the most valuable to his team will be announced tomorrow.

The selected youth will be presented with the Bob Bowsher Trophy, a rotating award presented each year by The Herald.

In selecting the top player in the county, coaches consider overall ability, contribution to team effort and general conduct on the basketball court.

Bob Bowsher was an outstanding Circleville High School athlete killed in action in Europe during World War II. While in high school he participated in football, basketball, track and boxing.

THE DETERMINATION and bravery which made him an outstanding athlete was well exhibited in his war record.

Past winners of the award are Jim Pickelseimer, Williamsport, 1948; Bob Pontius, Walnut, 1949; Bill Rowley, Darby, 1950; Lester Saunders, Monroe, 1951; Harley Evans, Atlanta, 1952; Bill Evans, Pickaway, 1953; Kenny Kirk, New Holland, 1954; Har old Gearhardt, Atlanta, 1955; Gene Stonerock, Williamsport, 1956; Dave Smith, Pickaway, 1957; Dick Hoover, Ashville, 1958; Gary Valentine, Salter Creek, 1959; Bob Hoover, Ashville, 1960; Bob

Rudolph Pockets New Orleans Cash

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"This has been some day," said Mason Rudolph, pocketing the $7,500 first place check in the Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tourney.

"We almost didn't start, almost didn't finish and almost everything happened in between," said the bespectacled pro from Tennessee's dark-ford tobacco country, who came close to blowing a four-stroke lead in the wrap-up of the $50,000 tourney Monday.

The 29-year-old Clarksville belter had to scramble for a final three-over-par 75. It gave him a 72-hole total of 283, one stroke in front of Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus. Puerto Rican Jan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez and unknown Glenn Stuart, a Michigan club pro.

Eitel, Jackson, 1961; Tom Rathburn, Ashville, 1962; Rick Pond, Williamsport, 1963.

Koufax, Dodger Manager Swap Barbs on Contract

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The contract battle between star pitcher Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers is over but the scars may linger for some time — perhaps long enough to damage the Dodgers' chances for a second successive pennant.

There is a distinct coolness between Koufax and Dodger General Manager Buzz Bavasi, whom the brilliant southpaw accused Monday of deliberately casting him in the villain's role, forcing Sandy to accept a $70,000 contract for 1964.

"I've been hurt by people who I thought were my friends," said Koufax. "I was maneuvered into a corner where I was forced to agree to their terms or else be regarded as a greedy, no-good bum. When I met with Bavasi the last time I knew I had to sign no matter what they offered."

"They (the Dodgers) planted a story in a newspaper that I would quit if I did not get $90,000 plus a bonus based on attendance and a cut from pay television. The fact of the matter is I asked for just a few thousand dollars over what I finally agreed to. The Dodgers know this but all the people who had read the headlines do not. No matter what happens now, I'm marked as the greediest, most selfish guy in the world."

Bavasi, still in Los Angeles, reportedly is "fit to be tied" by Koufax' claim and a source close to the Dodger front office said the fuming general manager planned to fly to Vero Beach Wednesday to have it out with his star pitcher.

Koufax, who received $32,000 last year for winning 25 games and adding two more in the Dodgers' four-game World Series sweep over the New York Yankees, has not yet actually signed his 1964 contract. His agreement so far is an oral one.

Sandy appeared worn and haggard as he discussed his front office troubles with newspapermen.

"A couple of years ago they chastised me for what they said was negotiating through the newspapers," said Koufax. "But it's all right for them to do it. I guess whoever gets to the papers first wins the battle."

"I agreed to terms but I told Bavasi I was unhappy. Not so much at the terms of the contract but because of the way they had pushed me into a corner."

"I'm no longer angry, but hurt. I haven't been able to sleep ever since this happened. Whenever I talk about it, my voice starts shaking and I become upset. I spoke for an hour and a half with Mr. O'Malley (club president Walter O'Malley) and I probably said some things I shouldn't have, but I wanted him to know how strongly I felt about it. I want everybody to know the truth."

Jesse Arnette, former Penn State basketball and football star, is associate director of the Peace Corps in Turkey.

USTA Opens Probe at Scioto Oval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The United States Trotting Association and officials of the Scioto Downs harness racing track south of Columbus are investigating possible malfeasance during the track's 1963 meeting.

Scioto Downs itself was not involved, according to Don Millar, executive vice president of the USTA, headquartered here. Millar emphasized that Scioto officials are working with the association in the probe.

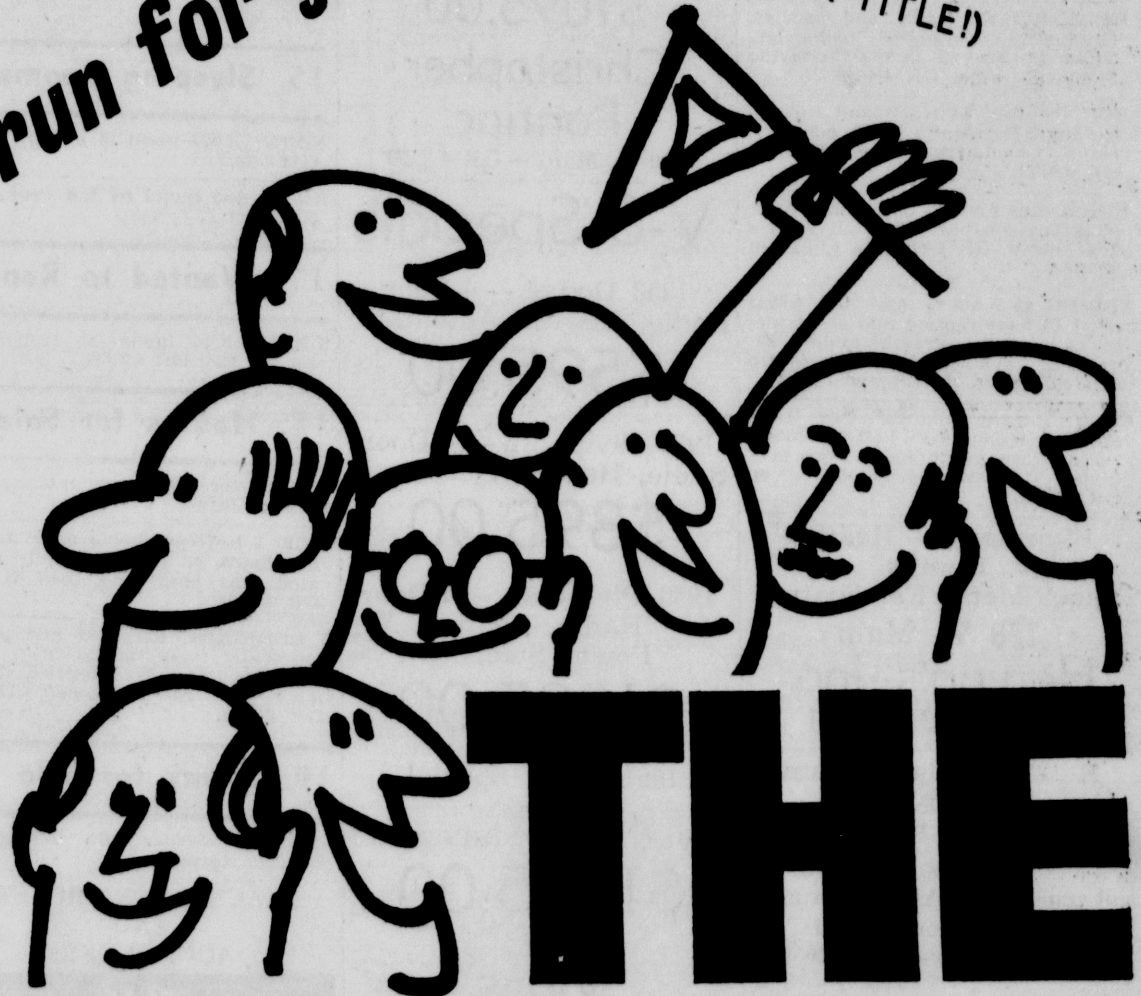

Millar issued this statement, refusing to amplify:

"An investigation of some of the participants in harness racing is under way here. I began with the Ohio district board of the USTA and the management of Scioto Downs about a month ago."

"The investigation resulted from information received by the USTA and the track after the 1963 racing season had closed. The track is not accused in any way."

"At present it is still in the investigation stage, and until the investigation is completed and hearings held, no further statement can be made."

Yesterday's Answer

3 More 5s Are Awarded Tourney Bids

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kansas State, Miami and St. Joseph's have joined the “ins,” Wichita became a large “maybe,” Ohio State a “could be” and whatever happened to Kentucky?

Miami, Fla., and St. Joseph's Pa., accepted invitations Monday to the National Invitation Tourney, the seventh and eighth teams in the 12-team bracket.

Kansas State clinched the Big Eight basketball title and the accompanying NCAA tourney berth. Wichita clinched a share of the Missouri Valley Conference lead, which also entails an NCAA tourney spot. And Ohio State kept its hopes alive.

UCLA, top-ranked in the nation, rolled on unbeaten, pushing its mark to 25-0 with an 87-57 rout of California.

But whatever happened to Kentucky?

It appears that Coach Adolph Rupp, nationally third-ranked heroes got caught looking the other way. St. Louis, an also-ran, shocked the Wildcats 67-60 in Kentucky's final game of the regular season.

It was Kentucky's first loss of the season on its home court and reduced the Southeastern Conference champions over-all record to 21-4. The St. Louis zone limited Kentucky's Cotton Nash to two field goals until he broke through in the last two minutes after the game was out of reach.

Kansas State, meanwhile, edged Oklahoma State 63-59 in overtime and clinched its seventh Big Eight title in nine years, with the help of Kansas, which eliminated runner-up Colorado 73-71 in overtime.

Wichita, ranked fifth in the nation, whipped North Texas State 90-83 and tied idle Drake for the Missouri Valley top spot each with 10-2 and the regular season completed. They'll meet Friday in a playoff game to determine the league's NCAA representative.

All America Gary Bradds helped keep Ohio State in the Big Ten picture, leading the Buckeyes to an 86-75 triumph over Illinois. Bradds tossed in 34 points in Ohio State's fifth straight league triumph. It put the Buckeyes into the top spot with an 11-2 record but they'll need help to make it to the NCAA tourney.

Mighty Michigan, ranked second in the nation, has a 10-2 conference mark with two games to go. Ohio State has only one remaining. If they end in a tie, Michigan gets the tourney spot since the Wolverines haven't been in the tourney in 16 years and Ohio State made it two years ago.

Kansas State pushed its overall record to 18-5 and 10-2 in the league with the triumph over Oklahoma State, its ninth straight and fourth in overtime. The loss spoiled Oklahoma State's bid for Coach Henry Iba's 700th coaching victory.

In other major action, Stanford romped over Washington State 81-55, Idaho beat Montana 64-51, Minnesota whipped Wisconsin 105-96 and Iowa upset Purdue 81-74.

George Szypula, Michigan State's first and only gymnastics coach, won the National AAU tumbling crown four straight years while attending Temple University.

3 More 5s Are Awarded Tourney Bids

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kansas State, Miami and St. Joseph's have joined the "ins," Wichita became a large "maybe," Ohio State a "could be" and whatever happened to Kentucky?

Miami, Fla., and St. Joseph's Pa., accepted invitations Monday to the National Invitation Tourney, the seventh and eighth teams in the 12-team bracket.

Kansas State clinched the Big Eight basketball title and the accompanying NCAA tourney berth. Wichita clinched a share of the Missouri Valley Conference lead, which also entails an NCAA tourney spot. And Ohio State kept its hopes alive.

UCLA, top-ranked in the nation, rolled on unbeaten, pushing its mark to 25-0 with an 87-57 rout of California.

But whatever happened to Kentucky?

It appears that Coach Adolph Rupp' nationally third-ranked heroes got caught looking the other way. St. Louis, an also-ran, shocked the Wildcats 67-60 in Kentucky's final game of the regular season.

It was Kentucky's first loss of the season on its home court and reduced the Southeastern Conference champions over-all record to 21-4. The St. Louis zone limited Kentucky's Cotton Nash to two field goals until he broke through in the last two minutes after the game was out of reach.

Kansas State, meanwhile, edged Oklahoma State 63-59 in overtime and clinched its seventh Big Eight title in nine years, with the help of Kansas, which eliminated runner-up Colorado 73-71 in overtime.

Wichita, ranked fifth in the nation, whipped North Texas State 90-83 and tied idle Drake for the Missouri Valley top spot each with 10-2 and the regular season completed. They'll meet Friday in a playoff game to determine the league's NCAA representative.

All America Gary Bradds helped keep Ohio State in the Big Ten picture, leading the Buckeyes to an 86-75 triumph over Illinois. Bradds tossed in 34 points in Ohio State's fifth straight league triumph. It put the Buckeyes into the top spot with an 11-2 record but they'll need help to make it to the NCAA tourney.

Mighty Michigan, ranked second in the nation, has a 10-2 conference mark with two games to go. Ohio State has only one remaining. If they end in a tie, Michigan gets the tourney spot since the Wolverines haven't been in the tourney in 16 years and Ohio State made it two years ago.

Kansas State pushed its overall record to 18-5 and 10-2 in the league with the triumph over Oklahoma State, its ninth straight and fourth in overtime. The loss spoiled Oklahoma State's bid for Coach Henry Iba's 700th coaching victory.

In other major action, Stanford romped over Washington State 81-55, Idaho beat Montana 64-51, Minnesota whipped Wisconsin 105-96 and Iowa upset Purdue 81-74.

Education To Be Keynote Of Glenn's Political Drive

CLEVELAND (AP) — Education will be the keynote of Lt. Col. John Glenn Jr.'s campaign for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator, a political writer said today.

The copyrighted story on Glenn's political ideas by Sanford Watzman of the Cleveland Plain Dealer was based on talks with Glenn's associates. Glenn himself won't get out of the Marines until April 1 and will not be free to state his views directly until that time.

The former astronaut is in Grant Hospital in Columbus, recovering from a brain concussion suffered in a fall at his apartment last week.

Watzman said statements Glenn has made to his associates indicate the candidate will take a stand in favor of current civil rights legislation, broadened educational opportunities, Medicare, the war on poverty and an international foreign policy.

He referred to Glenn as a liberal Democrat with convictions "that dovetail almost exactly with those of President Johnson."

Concerning education, said Watzman, Glenn "is convinced that education is the ultimate solution to practically all of America's problems, in the face of which other corrective measures are, at best, temporary expedients."

"He believes Ohio has fallen behind in the race for space-age industry because it lacks enough educational institutions to provide the talent and research tools to attract such industry."

"He regards education as primarily a state responsibility and would prefer to leave it in that sphere. Yet he feels that the states have neglected this basic obligation and, for this reason, federal assistance is required."

Regarding civil rights, Watzman said Glenn has strong feelings on this issue and would vote for the bill championed by President Johnson. Glenn was pictured as favoring Medicare because private insurance groups and medical organizations "are not doing enough to ease the anxieties of older persons and their families."

Concerning economic matters, Watzman said Glenn has strong feelings on this issue and would vote for the bill championed by President Johnson. Glenn was pictured as favoring Medicare because private insurance groups and medical organizations "are not doing enough to ease the anxieties of older persons and their families."

Noted Musician Dies
WATERVILLE, Maine (AP)—William Max Fiedler, 72, of Colby College's Music Department and founder of the Springfield, Ohio Symphony Orchestra, died Monday.

TELECONTACT IN OPERATION — Mrs. Virginia Smith, (above) Knollwood Village, and about 50 other women will be busy tomorrow and Thursday at their telephones informing area residents of voter registration data. The program is aimed at getting all voters' qualifications in order, especially registration, so they will be able to vote in the May primary and November elections.

Telecontact Program Set To Promote Registration

Plans for a voter registration telecontact tomorrow and Thursday, featuring volunteers from local women's service groups, were announced today by G. Ninde Lawson, chairman of the Area Chamber of Commerce Public Affairs Committee.

The project is sponsored by the Circleville Area Chamber under the direction of Lawson and his committee. Robert McKelvey is directly in charge of the telecontact drive. Robert Porter is responsible for coordinating publicity and follow-up registration promotion.

According to a spokesman for the group, the project — first of its kind in this area — has three basic objectives. They are: 1. to inform unregistered adult citizens of Circleville and Circleville Twp. of their voting status; 2. to encourage these people to register before the deadline of March 25; 3. to facilitate this by providing helpful information concerning the registration process.

Some 50 women representing nine groups will endeavor to reach approximately 1,200 homes by telephone during the two days, Chamber officials estimate.

THE campaign is designed to augment efforts of the Pickaway County Board of Elections to stimulate a more widespread interest and participation in voting this year.

Women's clubs represented in the project are the American Assn. of University Women, American Legion Auxiliary, Circleville Art League, Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary, Circleville Garden Club, Sigma Phi Gamma, Child Conservation League, Child Study Patron League and Pickaway County Registered and Graduate Nurses Assn.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, says it is time for new areas in this country to "share properly in federal research and development plums."

Young joined forces Monday with his Democratic colleague, Sen. Frank J. Lausche, to protest that the Midwest is being bypassed in assignment of federal installations which draw on scientists and engineers for talent.

The Buckeye senators specifically complained about what they said was failure of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to give adequate consideration to Cleveland's bid for a $60 million electronics research center.

NASA has announced its intention to locate the center in the Boston, Mass., area.

Young said that "each time a new facility is proposed, we hear the same worn argument that it should go to an area which already has institutions with experience in this field."

"As a result a vicious cycle has formed, and it can almost be predicted that any new important space facility will go to Boston, Houston or California."

"Obviously, communities in the 47 other states of the union are to be ignored and are not to take part in the space age," Young said.

Young said the Crile Hospital site at Parma, Ohio, a Cleveland suburb, would be an excellent spot for the new center.

He said that Cleveland has many institutions of higher education and also the Lewis Flight Center, a NASA facility which long has been engaged in electronics research.

Lausche said discrimination against the Midwest by Washington is adversely affecting the general economic growth of that area.

He charged it was obvious during NASA hearings on the site for the electronics center that Boston already had been chosen and that testimony was being taken only to "dignify" that choice.

Education To Be Keynote Of Glenn's Political Drive

CLEVELAND (AP) — Education will be the keynote of Lt. Col. John Glenn Jr.'s campaign for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator, a political writer said today.

The copyrighted story on Glenn's political ideas by Sanford Watzman of the Cleveland Plain Dealer was based on talks with Glenn's associates. Glenn himself won't get out of the Marines until April 1 and will not be free to state his views directly until that time.

The former astronaut is in Grant Hospital in Columbus, recovering from a brain concussion suffered in a fall at his apartment last week.

Watzman said statements Glenn has made to his associates indicate the candidate will take a stand in favor of current civil rights legislation, broadened educational opportunities, Medicare, the war on poverty and an international foreign policy.

He referred to Glenn as a liberal Democrat with convictions "that dovetail almost exactly with those of President Johnson."

Concerning education, said Watzman, Glenn "is convinced that education is the ultimate solution to practically all of America's problems, in the face of which other corrective measures are, at best, temporary expedients."

"He regards education as primarily a state responsibility and would prefer to leave it in that sphere. Yet he feels that the states have neglected this basic obligation and, for this reason, federal assistance is required."

Regarding civil rights, Watzman said Glenn has strong feelings on this issue and would vote for the bill championed by President Johnson. Glenn was pictured as favoring Medicare because private insurance groups and medical organizations "are not doing enough to ease the anxieties of older persons and their families."

Concerning economic matters,

"Glenn pictures himself as essentially a conservative in this area," said Watzman. "He asserts that President Johnson's moves toward a retrenchment in spending to keep a lid on the budget are sorely needed."

Also cited as Glenn's view was the opinion that management and labor must do more to voluntarily inhibit price and wage increases and that if this is not done "American goods will be priced out of the world market."

Glenn will make no personal attacks on U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young, his Ohio opponent for the Democratic nomination, or the Republican candidates, Robert Taft Jr. or Ted W. Brown, Watzman said.

Appeal Is Made For '64 Heart Fund

Pickaway Countians who plan to contribute to the 1964 Heart Fund drive are requested to do so immediately by Jack Linton, chairman.

Linton said total collections are nearly $4,000 — the highest amount ever collected in Pickaway County during the annual drive. The figure now stands at $3,910.44, with several not-at-home envelopes to be counted.

The total for Circleville as of yesterday was $1,353.56. Ashville's total stands at $280.06. Township and other village totals are as follows: Walnut Twp., $229.90; Madison, $114.70; Harrison, $168.61; South Bloomfield Village, $35.40; Pickaway, $156; Saltcreek, $183.02; Washington, $163.30; Perry, $98.96; Jackson, $94.95; Deercreek, $154.72; and New Holland, $71.55.

Noted Musician Dies

WATERVILLE, Maine (AP) — William Max Fiedler, 72, of Colby College's Music Department and founder of the Springfield, Ohio Symphony Orchestra, died Monday.

TELECONTACT IN OPERATION — Mrs. Virginia Smith, (above) Knollwood Village, and about 50 other women will be busy tomorrow and Thursday at their telephones informing area residents of voter registration data. The program is aimed at getting all voters' qualifications in order, especially registration, so they will be able to vote in the May primary and November elections.

Telecontact Program Set To Promote Registration

Plans for a voter registration telecontact tomorrow and Thursday, featuring volunteers from local women's service groups, were announced today by G. Ninde Lawson, chairman of the Area Chamber of Commerce Public Affairs Committee.

The project is sponsored by the Circleville Area Chamber under the direction of Lawson and his committee. Robert McKelvey is directly in charge of the telecontact drive. Robert Porter is responsible for coordinating publicity and follow-up registration promotion.

According to a spokesman for the group, the project — first of its kind in this area — has three basic objectives. They are: 1. to inform unregistered adult citizens of Circleville and Circleville Twp. of their voting status; 2. to encourage these people to register before the deadline of March 25; 3. to facilitate this by providing helpful information concerning the registration process.

Some 50 women representing nine groups will endeavor to reach approximately 1,200 homes by telephone during the two days, Chamber officials estimated.

THE campaign is designed to augment efforts of the Pickaway County Board of Elections to stimulate a more widespread interest and participation in voting this year.

Women's clubs represented in the project are the American Assn. of University Women, American Legion Auxiliary, Circleville Art League, Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary, Circleville Garden Club, Sigma Phi Gamma, Child Conservation League, Child Study Patron League and Pickaway County Registered and Graduate Nurses Assn.

Ohio Senators Rap NASA For Ignoring Buckeyeland

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, says it is time for new areas in this country to "share properly in federal research and development plums."

Young joined forces Monday with his Democratic colleague, Sen. Frank J. Lausche, to protest that the Midwest is being bypassed in assignment of federal installations which draw on scientists and engineers for talent.

The Buckeye senators specifically complained about what they said was failure of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to give adequate consideration to Cleveland's bid for a $60 million electronics research center.

NASA has announced its intention to locate the center in the Boston, Mass., area.

Young said that "each time a new facility is proposed, we hear the same worn argument that it should go to an area which already has institutions with experience in this field."

"As a result a vicious cycle has formed, and it can almost be predicted that any new important space facility will go to Boston, Houston or California."

"Evidently, communities in the 47 other states of the union are to be ignored and are not to take part in the space age," Young said.

Young said the Crile Hospital site at Parma, Ohio, a Cleveland suburb, would be an excellent spot for the new center.

He said that Cleveland has many institutions of higher education and also the Lewis Flight Center, a NASA facility which long has been engaged in electronics research.

Lausche said discrimination against the Midwest by Washington is adversely affecting the general economic growth of that area.

He charged it was obvious during NASA hearings on the site for the electronics center that Boston already had been chosen and that testimony was being taken only to "dignify" that choice.
